

WORLD PLANE SAFE; TWO LOST

ADWIN WARNS CITY TO PUT IN WATER METERS

Insists Mayor Defies War Department.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—(Special.)—Virtually definite assurance that the war department will not consider any modification of the permit under which the Chicago sanitary district withdraws water from Lake Michigan until the city of Chicago has made a sincere effort to meterize its water service was given members of the city council finance committee today by Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of army engineers.

The aldermanic delegation, in three formal questions, asked Gen. Jadwin to approve Mayor Thompson's proposal to substitute a city-wide water meter campaign for conditions in the permit requiring the city to meter at least 5 per cent of its water service annually until 90 per cent of the water pumped by city pumping stations was metered.

"Two actually have metered only 1 per cent a year since the permit was issued in March, 1925," declared Gen. Jadwin, citing statistics from reports filed by Col. Schuler, the war department's chief engineer at Chicago.

This city is not busy.

"In other words," declared the general, "you have metered only 3 per cent of the service in two years, while the permit calls for meterization of at least 15 per cent of the service in that time. Why don't you get ahead and comply with the terms of the permit and raise the question of modification later?"

Gen. Jadwin made it plain that the war department is not interested in where the meters are installed so long as 15 per cent of the services are metered annually and declared that the department's interest lies, not in the change of service that are metered, but in the net percentage. Nor is the war department interested, the general asserted, in the amount of water which is lost through defective mains or leaky household fixtures. The city should undertake to correct any wastage from such sources independent of any controversy over metering, the general held.

It may be necessary, as long as the subject of wastage through leaky mains and defective household fixtures was debated by the city, for the war department to revise the permit to provide specifically for such a situation by amending the permit, he added.

PRODUCES Mayor's Statements.

"We are very sorry," declared Alderman Oscar Nelson, "if you have any doubt that the mayor has refused to fulfill the terms of the permit relating to water meters."

"How could I have any other idea in view of the hundreds of clippings in which the mayor and his advisers are quoted as defying the war department and declaring that the meter ordinance is to be repealed and no meters installed?" asked Gen. Jadwin.

"The trouble is," answered Alderman Nelson, "that neither the legislative nor executive branches of the city government were consulted when the metering provision was written into the permit. The city and the war department have never before today discussed the matter directly. There is no disposition on the part of either the executive or legislative departments to defy the war department. Both are anxious to cooperate with the department to conserve water."

FEW METERS IN HOMES

Less than 5 per cent of Chicago's population is using meters on their water service, according to computations based on reports of the city water bureau. The other 95 per cent pay for their water on the old flat-rate basis which Mayor Thompson is seeking to retain.

Although Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of army engineers, has indicated on page 4, column 3.

THE MOTH AND THE FLAME

TAKES STEPS TO OUST SMALL VIA QUO WARRANTO

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 8.—(Special.)—Representative J. Bert Miller of Kankakee came to Springfield today with preliminary papers in a quo warranto proceeding to oust Gov. Small.

Under the Illinois law a proceeding of this sort must be begun by the attorney general or by the state's attorney of some county. Representative Miller applied to State's Attorney H. E. Fullenwider, of Sangamon county, and the latter has the matter under advisement.

The quo warranto proceeding proposed by Mr. Miller ignores the statute passed by the last assembly, which was designed to protect Gov. Small from quo warranto attacks on their eligibility to hold office. Miller contended that the statute of exemption is unconstitutional.

Miller's challenge of Small's right to hold office is based on the constitutional ground that he was ineligible when elected because he was indebted to the state.

5 Ships Carry Legionnaires to Paris Meet

New York, Sept. 8.—(Special.)—Nine ships sailing today and tomorrow are carrying 8,000 American legionnaires to the Paris convention. Five ships got away today and four more depart tomorrow, the Legionnaires serving as "flagship" with Gen. John J. Pershing and Howard P. Savage, national commander, aboard.

The ships on which American Legion contingents sailed today included the Cunard liners Antonio, Seythia, Caronia, and Caledonia, and the French liner De Grasse. Most of the veterans wore their overseas caps, some of blue, others of gray, and still others of red and green. Many wore khaki uniforms sprinkled with medals and ribbons.

A large proportion of the veterans wore the uniforms of local military organizations, from feathers and paint of Osage Indians to primatic hues in the uniforms of the California troops.

Carry Balaclava and Granger.

Californians on the De Grasse paraded the decks in white and gold uniforms, their pockets bulging with raifins. They said they were taking 10,000 packages to Paris so that in the grand parade they could bombard the spectators. Another company had 200 crates of oranges, which they intend to distribute as souvenirs.

A souvenir which the Californians do not intend to hurl at the Parisians is a piece of a giant redwood tree, 1,995 years old. They also have a bronze wreath to be placed on the tomb of France's unknown soldier.

The Maryland Fife and Drum corps was another outfit on the De Grasse. They were the Maryland state colors of black and gold.

Include 14 Osage Indians.

When the steamer Antonio backed into the Hudson with 700 Legion members from Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, and Indiana aboard she was cheered by those aboard the De Grasse. The contingent aboard the Antonio included 14 Osage Indians in tribal regalia and a group of cowboys.

Veterans from Manhattan, Brooklyn, and New Jersey sailed on the Seythia, which will stop at Boston to pick up several hundred additional veterans.

With 750 Legionnaires and their wives and children the Caronia sailed in the afternoon. Most of the veterans on that ship are from Illinois. Their band played "The Star Spangled Banner" as the ship left.

Cast Wreath on Ocean.

Before sailing tonight on the Caledonia, 35 Staten Island veterans called upon Borough President John A. Lynch of Richmond, who gave them a quantity of earth from the base of Memorial tree in Hero park which they will place upon the graves of Staten Island soldiers in France. He also gave them a wreath to be cast adrift in midocean in memory of the men who lost their lives in the war.

Ships sailing tomorrow with Legionnaires include the White Star liner

WARSHIPS FOR CONVOY

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
PARIS, Sept. 8.—A squadron of French torpedo boats and hydroplanes will cruise out to meet the flagship of the American Legion, the Leviathan, just before it arrives at Cherbourg on Sept. 15, the navy department announced today.

The ships and airplanes will escort the liner to port, where city officials will welcome Gen. John Pershing, Commander Howard P. Savage, and the other Legionnaires. Then the American will be taken to the Hotel de Ville, where a short ceremony will be held before their departure for Paris on special trains.

Major Barks at Legion Fete.

While Gen. Goursaud, military governor of Paris, was giving a luncheon this noon for James P. Barton, a naval adjutant of the Legion, Howard P. Savage, chairman of the Paris convention committee, and a score of other Legion officials, Ernest de Clambray, mayor of Paris, was giving orders to block any Legion celebration in his domain.

Refusing to abide by the request of the prefect of Seine et Oise department to fly French and American flags on Sept. 15, Mayor de Clambray today ordered all colors at half-mast as a sign of mourning for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

WOMEN CROWD POLICE STATION TO ACCUSE 'CAT'

Confessed Bandit Tells of Exploits.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Ricketty old Summerdale police station at 1440 Foster avenue groaned and creaked last night under the weight of more than 1,000 persons, most of them women, who thronged in to take a look at William Edward Mitchell, the college bred bandit who confessed he robbed innumerable women and won from the police the sobriquet of "The Cat."

A thousand more would have liked to look at him out of mere curiosity, but the station house wouldn't hold them and they had to be content with peering in at the windows or getting their reports from those who came early enough to seize such points of vantage.

Biggest Sensation in Years.

Police said it was the biggest sensation in twenty years, with the station squadroom looking like the foyer of a movie theater and the "Cat" being paraded slowly before his victims a hundred at the time.

Capt. Martin O'Malley, who says not a few of the gray hairs upon his head during the last two years are there on the "Cat's" account, was all satisfaction and more than once he shook hands with Sergeants John F. O'Brien and August Croat, congratulating them on the capture of the "Cat" late last Wednesday as he was robbing another woman.

All Unpleasant for "Cat."

As for the "Cat" himself, he didn't care much for the proceedings and the limelight into which he had stepped. He was sly and bit his finger nails until the blood came. He hung his head and wouldn't look his victims in the eye when they confronted him and he didn't like it a bit when some of the women told of the sex crimes attempted with his banditry.

Still Capt. O'Malley managed to get from him rather pleasant story.

He told it to the officer while the women he had robbed pawed around on the big table where seven or eight bushels of his loot was laid out for their jewels and watches and necklaces and purses and any amount of other baubles and trinkets.

Faces Forty Charges.

And when the sensational show-up was over some forty charges of robbery with a gun and burglary; one charge that hurt more than all the rest—so he said—a charge of rape.

It was after he had detailed all his crimes and denied that he mixed sex crimes with his banditry—admitting only that he "sometimes felt the legs of his women victims to see if they had money in their stockings"—that Mitchell told Capt. O'Malley some of his history.

He revealed that he was a college man, a graduate in civil engineering from the University of St. Louis; that he was a soldier—a volunteer—in the world war; that he served 27 months with the Rainbow division in France; and that he was twice wounded while in the service—at Chateau Thierry and in the Argonne.

Son of Really Dealer.

The "Cat" said he is the son of a well-to-do real estate man of Seattle, Wash., and that he has four brothers and sisters in that city.

It was while he was attending the University of St. Louis for the first time, he said, that he met Helen Moore, the daughter of a St. Louis physician, and fell in love with her. But the war broke into that affair, and it was not until after he had been mustered out of the service at Fort Riley, Kas., and had gone back to the university to finish that they decided to be married, he said.

"I went back to the university in 1921 and 1922," he said. "In June, 1922, after school had closed for the summer, we took a boat down the Mississippi to New Orleans. And we were married in New Orleans on June 22, 1922."

Wife Is Also Held.

That girl, now his wife, was also held by the police last night and Capt. O'Malley said she will be charged with being an accessory to his crimes. She confessed being his inactive partner in his recent crimes and his confidante.

They used to read the papers on mornings following his prowlings, the young wife said. Mitchell would scoff at the descriptions given of him, she said.

Nations Will Curb Wildcat Ocean Flights

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, Sept. 8.—The fate of the American trans-Atlantic plane, Old Glory, the probable loss of the Sir John Carling, bound for London, England from London, Ont., and other recent air tragedies prompted M. Fortant, director of aeronautics, to urge strong action today to prevent further French trans-Atlantic attempts. He indicated that he probably would ask the government to back him up with a law to put these adventures under the strict supervision of the state. Flights of planes with single motors across the Atlantic ought to be prohibited, and only tri-motor machines capable of landing on water should be allowed to start, he said.

Spain to Stop "Stunts."

MADRID, Spain, Sept. 8.—(AP)—It is understood that the Spanish government will not sanction further airplane flights unless they are planned in great detail, and only when made with some practical result in view.

Canada May Bar Sea Flights.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 8.—(Special.)—Premier Mackenzie King definitely heralded tonight the passing of a law in Canada to prohibit ocean flying. His announcement followed upon the setting in motion of every available government service to help locate Tully and Medcalf, lost London-to-London flyers. A bill will be introduced at the coming session of parliament. The premier declared his belief that the Canadian people were sickening of the multiplicity of air tragedies.

Call Off Windsor Flyers.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 8.—There will be no more trans-Atlantic flights attempted from Canada. When it was established this afternoon that the Sir John Carling plane, bound for London, England, was missing, the committee in charge of the Windsor, Ont., to Windsor, England, flight wired "Duke" Schiller and Phil Wood, now in Newfoundland with their plane, the Royal Windsor, instructing them to abandon their flight and go home.

Wood and Schiller May Quit.

St. John's, N. F., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Phil Wood and "Duke" Schiller, navigator and pilot of the monoplane Royal Windsor, which has been at Harbor Grace awaiting favorable weather for a trans-Atlantic flight, announced here tonight as soon as weather permitted they would search the ocean at the position given in the S O S message sent out early yesterday by the Old Glory.

Although early in the evening they had announced that they would fly tomorrow should the weather permit, the flyers received a message from their backers at Windsor, Ont., some time later strongly advising them to discontinue the trans-Atlantic attempt. While they made no public statement as to their action in view of this message, the announcement that they would make a search for the missing Old Glory was taken as indicating that they had abandoned the Windsor-to-Windsor flight, at least for the present.

Germany Frowns on Stunts.

BERLIN, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The misfortune which appears to have overtaken the American airplane, Old Glory, and other recent disasters of similar nature are cited by aviation experts here as confirming their belief that non-stop trans-oceanic flights, with machines incapable of running aloft in a heavy sea, hinder, rather than aid, the progress of aviation.

Urges Action by U. S.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—[U. P.]—Federal legislation to curb "unSAFE and foolhardy overseas flights in land planes" was advocated today by Acting Secretary of the Navy Robinson. With deaths from transoceanic flights mounting rapidly, government and national aeronautic association officials frankly admit their present helplessness to stop dangerous aviation ventures. The only immediate solution which they can see rests with the flyers themselves.

FRED ROBINSON, SECRETARY OF ELKS, RESIGNS

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Fred C. Robinson, grand secretary of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, has resigned his position, it became known last night. Mr. Robinson was reflected to the secretaryship at the convention in July in Cincinnati. His resignation caused surprise among Chicago officials of the order.

"It is true that my father has resigned as grand secretary," said a son of Mr. Robinson last night. "Beyond that my father cannot comment as any statement must come through the grand exalted ruler. It would be unethical for him to issue any statement."

Mr. Robinson has been an Elk for many years and was one of the organizers of the Dubuque, Ia. lodge. He has been a member of the grand lodge since 1897.

DETROIT FLYERS TO HONGKONG; HUNT CARLING

Despair of Old Glory Down in Ocean.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

HONGKONG, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The American globe encircling airplane Pride of Detroit arrived here from Hanoi (French Indo-China) at 3:25 p. m. Friday (3:35 a. m. Friday, Chicago time). They had left Hanoi at 8:15 a. m. After a brief rest William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, co-pilots, planned to continue the flight to Tokyo with a possibility of a stop en route in the event of unfavorable weather. The distance from Hong Kong to Tokyo is slightly in excess of 1,800 miles.

BULLETIN.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Phil Wood and "Duke" Schiller, Windsor-to-Windsor flyers, returned to Harbor Grace tonight, announcing that they intended to embark tomorrow on a search for Old Glory.

BULLETIN.

CROYDON, England, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Colored searchlights will flash all night in hope of guiding the Sir John Carling, should it manage to reach the London area. Hope that the Canadian plane will reach its destination is slight, as the visibility is miserable.

New York, Sept. 8.—(Special.)—The daring crews of two airplanes were missing tonight when darkness again spread over the ocean.

Nothing had been found to indicate the fate of Old Glory, the W. R. Hearst monoplane on which Lloyd Bertand, James D. Hill, and Philip Payne were flying on their way to Rome when disaster overtook them. It is almost certain these three men are dead. It seemed probable that the Sir John Carling, on which Capt. Terrence Tully and Lieut. James Medcalf were flying to London, had also come down in the sea.

Pride of Detroit Safe.

Great uneasiness was felt earlier in the night when no word had been heard for hours of the Pride of Detroit, carrying William F. Schlee and William S. Brock, the Detroit round the world flyers. They started for Bangkok, Siam, from Rangoon, a distance of 375 miles, on Wednesday at 7 p. m. New York time. When they failed to reach that point it was feared that they had crashed en route. Later, however, they were reported at Hanoi, 625 miles from Bangkok. Bad weather caused the change in destination.

The fear that the Carling had been lost, adding two more to the long list of pilots and passengers sacrificed on over water flights, depressed all Europe, where a wave of protest had gone up after the disappearance of Old Glory. From every side, including the ranks of flying men, came regrets that the first brilliantly successful flights had been limited so many times by impetuous men when the chances against success were so great.

Failures Disheartening.

The last three attempts to fly the Atlantic have ended in disheartening failure. No more is known of the mysterious fate of the crews of the Carling and Old Glory than of those who ventured from England on the St. Raphael. Four planes, including that of Nungesser and Goll, have plunged under the waves of the Atlantic this summer without leaving the slightest inkling of what caused the grim tragedies or what was the circumstance of their occupants' deaths. It was as if the Atlantic, jealous of the success of Lindbergh, Chamberlin, and Byrd, had decreed that no more flying men should pass this year.

All day today the liners Nova Scotia, American Merchant and California searched the storm whipped waters of the Atlantic along the course which the Hearst plane, Old Glory, is believed to have followed east of Newfoundland, but without success. They began their task the night before and kept at it all day, long before they heard of the offer of $25,000 reward posted by William Randolph Hearst, backer of the flight, for the discovery of the plane or the rescue of its crew. But nothing met the eyes of the men who in crew's nest and on the bridge, swept the broken sea.

The last view of Old Glory was from the California, which caught a glimpse of it as it passed in the early morning of Wednesday. The story of that last view of the plane was sent to land today by the commander of the ship.

"At 4:57 Greenwich meridian time

Old Glory came up from a point on the starboard quarter and passed close to us on the starboard side, about 100 feet up. He was flashing a light to which we answered by wishing him good luck through our Morse plant. He disappeared from sight on our port bow. Shortly before he appeared the wireless operator on watch reported his appearance by direction finder.

At 5:33 Greenwich meridian time (10 p. m. Chicago time) the wireless operator reported his S.O.S. but could only make out the words "Newfoundland east." At the time he passed the wind was north-northwest, cloudy sky. Our position then was 48.00 north, 48.45 west. Am afraid his only hope was Transylvania or Carmania, as we could not possibly reach his position before nightfall.

Certain Old Glory Is Down.

The low height at which the plane was flying showed clearly that unless the pilot increased his altitude after passing the California, it would have been taken but a short time for the plane to hit the water after trouble developed. What that trouble was was only guessed at tonight. English authorities taking the position that the plane was so heavily overloaded that it might have broken in two. This seemed improbable, however, as it was of the same construction as the ship used by Commander Byrd, which carried a much greater load. The fuselage was of welded steel, not duralumin.

At all events, it was certain that the plane was down at 5 o'clock to-night. Thursday, as it carried no more gas than would have kept it in the air after that time under the most favorable conditions. There was much anxiety in Rome when news of Old Glory was received, and Premier Mussolini asked that he be notified if any word was received of the fate of the plane.

Carling Took Same Course.

The ship which befell the Sir John Carling was just as inexplicable as the other. The two flyers in the Carling hopped off from Newfoundland for London a few hours after it was known that Old Glory had gone down, not knowing the fate of that ship. They must have passed somewhere near the place where the former ship met disaster, for they were on about the same course. The course Bertrand followed, according to Giles Steadman, first officer of the Leviathan who went over it with him, was somewhat south of the great circle course and a little north of the steamship course.

The Carling was believed to have taken a great circle course from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, which might have been as much as 150 miles north of the spot at which Old Glory sent out her S.O.S. for help. The two planes met about the same weather conditions, fairly clear weather, strong westerly winds and rough seas which would have broken them up quickly when they landed in the water. There is no knowing, however, when the Carling met its fate. On the Irish coast weather conditions were even worse than off Newfoundland, with rain and fog making visibility poor.

Carried No Radio.

The Carling carried no radio, so it may never be known how far it went across the ocean. It was the same type of plane, with the same motor as that which Schlee and Brock, the round the world flyers, flew successfully across the Atlantic. The Carling, moreover, was a sister ship of the Canadian plane now at Newfoundland waiting for favorable weather to fly to Windsor, England.

The Carling was due at London at 3 o'clock this morning, New York time, and when that time came and passed, and hours went by without word of the little plane, those waiting in England felt certain that it had met the same fate as the larger American plane. The probability that the Carling was lost was followed by a wave of fierce resentment against such flights, although there were some to claim that flying the Atlantic, at least from east to west, so far unaccomplished, must be done.

Mrs. Lloyd W. Bertrand and Mrs. Philip A. Payne—wives of two of those on board Old Glory—spent today together, waiting for some word of the missing flyers. They attended the special mass at which prayers were offered for the safety of the plane's occupants, which was celebrated in the Lady's chapel of St. Patrick's cathedral at 9 a. m., by the Rev. Bernard F. McQuade, and then went back to the Hotel White, where the Paynes have an apartment.

Rangoon to Hanoi.

Although the flight of the Pride of Detroit from Rangoon to Hanoi was over one of the worst parts of the round-the-world route being followed by Brock and Schlee, the United States army flyers made it easily in 1934. They even landed at Cerver, but as they had pontoons on this part of the trip they were independent of landing fields.

The route from Rangoon all the way to Hanoi is mountainous and jungles and through a torrid, humid atmosphere. It is one of the most uncomfortable places in the world. This also is the time of the monsoons, the disagreeable rainy winds which blow for several months of the year.

The western part of Siam between Rangoon and Bangkok is mountainous, and after the mountains are passed there are the swamps and jungles of the Menam river valley. If the plane had been forced down in any part of this jungle country it would have been difficult for the pilots to find a landing place, and if they crashed they would have been hard put to it to get out, even with the aid of their rifles. The jungle is full of tigers, leopards, and other wild beasts, and the climate is

FONCK, CURTIN UNDETERRED; TO MAKE PARIS HOP

New York, Sept. 8.—[Special.]—Undeterred by the tragedy which apparently has overwhelmed Old Glory and other planes in recent overseas ventures, Capt. Rene Fonck and Lieut. Lawrence Curtin, United States navy, pilots of the new Sikorsky biplane, City of Paris, plan to hop to Paris within another week, weather permitting.

Completed a week ago, having made a test flight last Saturday, the giant ship is now being rushed through extensive load, fuel consumption, performance, and radio tests at Mitchell field.

COURTNEY READY TO HOP.

COURTNEY, Spain, Sept. 8.—[Special.]—Capt. F. T. Courtney, the British aviator, and his companions this morning were making preparations to resume their trans-Atlantic flight to New York. However, late this forenoon they had not yet started.

Weather Holds Up Plane.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Sept. 8.—[Special.]—Continued adverse weather reports kept the airplane Princess Xenia on the ground today and it was said that indications were that Capt. Robert McInnes and Capt. Anthony Wrenford would not try to start for America for at least forty-eight hours. It was raining here today and the visibility was poor.

NOTES DROPPED FROM PLANE IDENTIFIED AS WRITTEN BY REDFERN

Brunswick, Ga., Sept. 8.—[Special.]—Hope for Paul R. Redfern, Brunswick, Ga., agent for a plane which was reported missing since he hopped off from his beach two weeks ago today, flamed higher tonight with positive identification of a note dropped from a monoplane and picked up by a Norwegian steamer 165 miles off the coast of Venezuela on Aug. 30.

While Paul J. Varner, flight chairman, was comparing photostatic copies of the notes with specimens of Redfern's handwriting and finding the style identical, the Rev. Fred C. Redfern, Columbia, S. C., the young aviator's father, sent word there was no doubt that it was his son's handwriting.

The note said: "Point ship to nearest land. Wave flag or handkerchief once for each 100 miles. Redfern. Thanks."

Dirigible Los Angeles Anchors Off Virginia

LEWIS, 4 OTHERS ARE INDICTED ON MURDER CHARGES

Face Trial for Killing of Junk Dealer.

Indictments charging murder against Harry J. (Lefty) Lewis, a business agent for a local of the teamsters' union, and four of his alleged associates were voted by the grand jury yesterday. They are charged with the murder on Aug. 26 of Max Braverman, father of five children, who was shot to death because he refused to join and pay tribute to a union of junk dealers being formed by Lewis.

The continuation of the inquest in the afternoon nearly broke up in a riot when the Rev. Elmer L. Williams, who was characterized by attorneys as a professional reformer, attempted to be impeached as a corrupt juror. Because of the objections by both Attorney James Quinn, representing the defense and Assistant State's Attorney Emmet Byrne, Williams was ruled from the jury.

Grand Jury Action Quick.

The grand jury session, which is the first step in the promised action of Prosecutors Byrne and Henry Avers to send Lewis to the electric chair, took only a few minutes. Six of the junk dealers present at the murder pointed out Lewis as the killer.

Patrick Lavelle, Frank Smith, John Russo and Pasquale (Patsy) Pargoni, were identified as being members of the crew of fifteen or more sluggers accompanying Lewis to the meeting. They were named in separate indictments because of the desire of the prosecutors to try Lewis alone first, inasmuch as he is accused of firing the fatal shot.

Ask Trial at Once.

Chief Justice William V. Brothers will be asked tomorrow morning to assign Lewis immediately and set his case for trial at once. The state feels that unless he is put to trial immediately their witnesses may be tampered with.

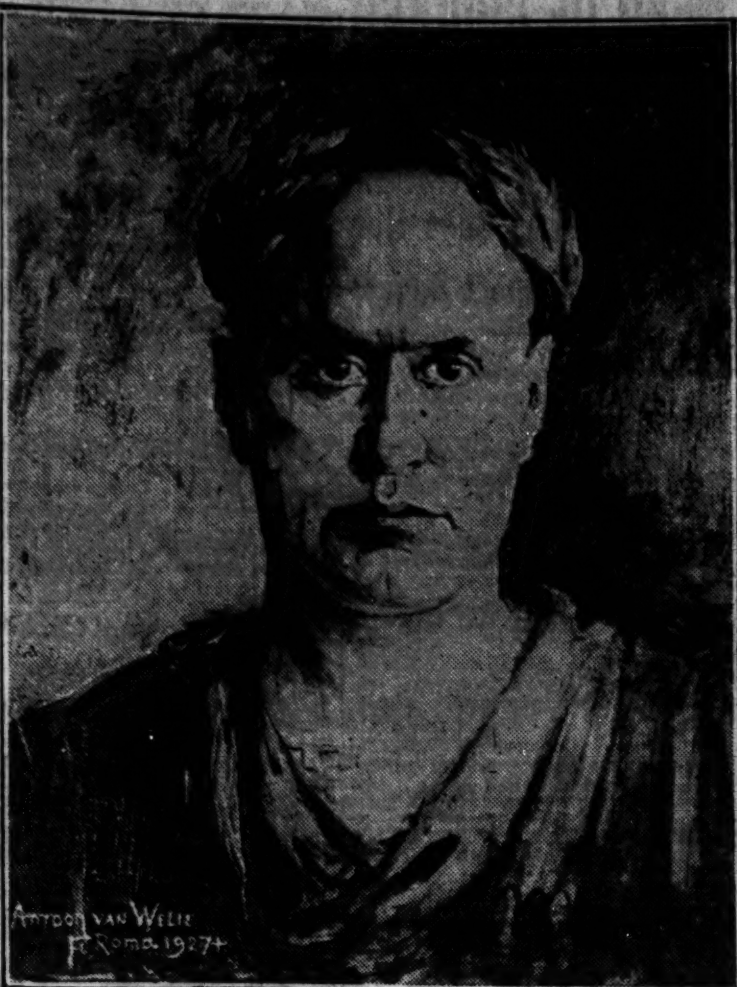

When the inquest was called to order by Deputy Coroner Joseph Dorfman it was found that two of the jurors were missing. Rev. Williams immediately came forward to take one of the vacant seats and as he was about to be sworn in Attorney Quinn objected on the ground of him being a professional reformer. This started a verbal tiff between them, which was soon joined in by the prosecutor.

Wants Ridiculing Stopped.

Some of the activities of the preacher-reformer were recalled and finally he appealed to the deputy coroner, according to the latter, to stop the attempt from ridiculing him.

The Rev. Williams was once a member of the Better Government association, but his connections were severed.

Benito Mussolini, Italian dictator, pictured as Julius Caesar, his prototype of twenty centuries ago, by Antoon Van Weelie, Dutch "painter of popes."

Some months ago when it was discovered that George Brennan, Democratic leader, had paid in some $27,000 to the league to finance the candidacy of Hope Thompson, an independent candidate for state's attorney in 1924, Michael L. Igoe was the Democratic candidate against Robert E. Crowe.

Williams' latest exploit was in hooking on to the government pay roll at $50 a week when Hope Thompson was assistant district attorney. Many indictments returned at that time were later thrown out of court. His present business is publisher of a paper, which he has now turned into the official organ of the alimony club.

CHINESE, SUING AUTHOR, CHARGES ANCESTOR SLUR

Foster Father Says Novel
Slanders Daughter.

Claiming damages to his name as an honorable ancestor, Mong Wong Chi, wealthy Chinese of New York, filed a $50,000 libel suit in the Circuit court yesterday against Harry Stephen Keeler, author, of 1327 Addison street. The bill alleges that a recent novel by the writer is a slur on the character of the complainant's adopted daughter, Sarah Chi, an artist.

Met Her in Paris.
Keeler and the Chinese girl were acquaintances in the artists' colony in Paris four years ago. He was studying conditions in the Chinese settlement there and she was helping him, the declaration recites. In return for her help, he promised to "make her the heroine of his next book. It is said it is alleged that he fulfilled the promise, but that the heroine of the novel was a Chinese girl of no morals.

Says Novel Slanders Her.
The character in the book bore the name of O Ming Chi, but, the bill charges, she was of described that friends of Sarah Chi recognized the living counterpart. Mr. Keeler said last night his lawyer had told him not to discuss the suit.

STEALS $5,800, BUT HAS EVERY PENNY READY TO RETURN

When Dominic de Philippo, 21 years old, confessed to Detectives Nicholas Downey and John Carten of the bureau last night that he had stolen from $2 to $5 a day for the last four years from I. Miller & Co., Inc., shoe house at 137 South State street, he produced from his pocket a bank book showing that he had $5,800 on deposit at the Continental and Commercial National bank.

"There it is," he said, "right there in the bank—every penny that I stole. I kept track of it and saved it up and once every week I went to the bank and deposited it. Never spent one penny of it. Now I'm glad I've made a clean breast of it and when I've given the money back I'll feel O. K."

De Philippo was shipping clerk of the shoe concern.

BLAMES $85,000 SWINDLE UPON "ALABAMA KID"

Albert Blair, known also as Albert Brown and nicknamed the "Alabama Kid," was held yesterday on federal and state charges involving efforts to sell $41,000 stolen bonds on Wednesday, and charges of swindling.

Today he probably will face charges of complicity in a swindle involving $85,000 from Christopher Maul in 1924. A son living at 1684 Milwaukee avenue said Christopher Maul died shortly after a gang had returned $10,000 of the $85,000 cash obtained in the supposed stock market transactions; the $85,000 in bonds, making up the $85,000, never have been offered for sale as far as known, the police were told.

Before Municipal Judge William R. Feiser, Blair yesterday was placed under $30,000 bonds on charges of robbery and receiving stolen property. On the complaint of two postal inspectors, James R. Glass, United States commissioner, held Blair under $5,000 bonds on charges of swindling Archibald Padis of Savannah, Ga., out of $25,000 on fake stock market tips.

WOMEN CROWD POLICE STATION TO ACCUSE "CAT"

Confessed Bandit Tells of His Exploits.

said. He would explain that the women who had reported brutal assaults were hysterical and didn't know what they were talking about, when his wife demanded an accounting of him. As he talked with the young man, Capt. O'Malley noticed that he has a cauliflower ear—that service mark so often displayed by pugilists. He asked Mitchell whether he had boxed or been a prize fighter. The "cat" said he had done some ring fighting and that he had been boxing instructor in the army. And Sergis O'Brien and Croft also were willing to testify he was anything but gauche with his "mits."

His Theory of Crime.
Mitchell had a simple equation which led him to rob women. It wasn't the thrill he got. It was just this, he said:

"Women can't run as fast as men. If I grabbed a woman's pocketbook and ran that was the end of it."

And the "Cat" has no previous criminal record. At the onset of his career two years ago he was shot through the neck by Sergis, Thomas Lamie and Harry Shuler, who caught him trying to enter a home on Lafayette parkway, east of Sheridan road.

The police, however, could pin no charge on him then, and he was released. One of the homes burglarized by the "Cat," he confessed, was that of Edward Hines, millionaire lumberman, at 1466 Ridge avenue, Evanston. Another was that of St. Mary, secretary of the police department. He took $400 worth of jewelry from the Hines residence before he was routed by a police dog.

"My wife encountered him on a stairway in our home," Mr. Mayer said. "She screamed and he knocked her down and escaped."

Mitchell's loot of two years is estimated by the police at approximately $100,000. About $25,000 of this is spread out on that big table in the station. There are at least 100 rings, dozens of pocketbooks, a large number of watches, bracelets, brooches and other jeweled ornaments, several cameras, a perfume case, an electric vibrator, a tin detective star, an automobile siren, opera glasses, spectacles, clocks and hundreds of other articles.

Can't Give His Motive.

One of the most puzzling things about the "Cat" is that he always had a job and always worked. He drove his own car and except when out mauling, he lived a quiet, normal life. And he either can not or will not tell what impelled him to become a stickup man. When he is asked, as he was time after time last night, he simply drops his head and shakes it in a bewildered sort of a way and mutters:

"I don't know—I don't know."

Mrs. Mitchell said she learned of her husband's crimes only two months ago, when after a great deal of questioning as to the source of his increasing income he confessed the robberies. She worked at a dress shop on Sheridan road, and on Tuesday, Friday, and Saturday evenings would be employed until 10 o'clock. It was usually on these nights that Mitchell got in his best looks as the "Cat" bandit, she said. "I still love him, in spite of what he has done," she said. "I hope they'll let him go some time, and when they do, I'll be waiting to take him back."

Mitchell, as he sat in Capt. O'Malley's office chained to Lieut. Joseph McGuire, calmly told of his exploits. He is a wiry youth, 28 years old, weighing 150 pounds, and 5 feet 9 inches in height. He lived at 9777 Pingree street.

Started Two Years Ago.

"I started out on this about two years ago, and I suppose I have pulled from 100 to 150 jobs," Mitchell said. "My first job? I don't remember it. Perhaps it was a burglary. I got into a house and found it was easy, and so I kept it up."

"Then I took to robbing women on the streets. It was easy, too. Men run faster than women, and women don't fight."

"Why did you rob them? You had $600 in the bank," Mitchell was queried.

"I just wanted to get ahead faster."

"Didn't you get a morbid thrill out of struggling with the women?"

"No. I was after the money."

"But they say you abused and attacked them?"

"All I did was to search their stockings for money," was the reply. "All I wanted was their jewelry and money."

"What about the testimony of Esther Haack, 3015 Belden avenue, who says that after you robbed her of a watch and $8 on July 14 you forced her into a yard and attempted to assault her?"

"I don't know why she should say that."

"And there's another woman, on Carmen avenue, who says you took her ring, and then when she said it was all she had, you gave it back to her and then mistreated her."

"I remember giving her the ring back. I didn't attack her. I never attacked anybody."

"What do you do in the daytime?"

"I've been working every day. I worked as a manager in a restaurant and lately I got a job as a salesman for a soap furniture company."

"You and your wife were both working, and you had $600 in the bank; there was no reason for you to be a thief. Why were you?"

"I just got into it. I wanted to quit, I guess, but then I'd get to walking around, and soon I'd see a woman, and I'd rob her. I let a lot of them go by, the ones that didn't look like ready money."

"What territory did you work?"

"O. Wilson avenue and Rogers Park; one job in Evanston."

"How many women do you think you robbed?"

"I haven't any idea. Sometimes it was one, sometimes three or four a night. I suppose a hundred would hit it."

FARMERS LEARN NEED OF CHICAGO CANAL TO OCEAN

Europe Visitor Sees How Cheap Transport Saves.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, Sept. 8.—The American farmers have become convinced that cheap water transportation is vital to their interests since their European travels. The trip also has intensified their interest in a canal project which would link up Chicago with ocean traffic through the great lakes.

If the United States can solve transportation problems it will solve the farmers' problem at the same time, said Dean Larsen of the South Dakota Agriculture college and former director of the Illinois Agriculture association.

"The secret of European marketing efficiency is cheap water communication through rivers and canals," Mr.

Larsen said. "Their problem has been simplified also by the fact that producing centers and consuming centers are close to each other. Our farmers have seen more clearly the necessity for a canal from the seaboard to Chicago, permitting ships to reach Chicago, which is the heart of the producing center."

According to Dean Larsen, this would solve another problem, which is to move the center of population farther west near the food source. In order to accomplish this he thinks that industry and manufacturing must become more decentralized from the northeastern corner of the country.

"Chicago should be the national center, and as a matter of fact industries already are creeping westward to get closer to the markets," he continued.

Dean Larsen emphasized the difference in America as compared with Berlin, Amsterdam, Paris and London, where the markets at the back doors of the cities are served by cheap river and canal traffic.

The close contact between the producer and consumer arising through the fact that the European housewife goes into the market herself, picking and choosing, also promotes cooperation, enabling the producer to know the tastes and needs of his consumers, according to Dean Larsen.

LEAGUE OFFERS GERMANY BID FOR LOST COLONIES

Elect Berlin to Seat on Mandate Commission.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The assembly of the league of nations this afternoon elected Berlin to seat on the mandate commission, which will supervise the financial assistance to nations which are victims of aggression, said the project possessed great value and would deter aggression, but that Great Britain would want to see a tangible reduction of armaments before accepting the scheme.

Another matter of importance which came before the council had to do with Germany's former colonies. The council decided to increase the membership of the league's mandate commission, which supervises these colonies, from three to ten, and assured Germany a seat in the commission. This is interpreted as meaning the eventual restoration of Germany of one or more of the colonies which she lost in the war.

All Nations Must Accept.
On the question of financial assistance the British foreign secretary said it would be impossible to consider the project apart from disarmament, and that British parliamentary acceptance was undoubtedly would be contingent on acceptance by all the nations.

The project, which was drawn up by the league's financial committee and was given before the assembly, provides that a nation attacked could contract a loan on the general security of its government, but with the assistance of international guarantee to be contracted in a convention which would be open to all nations. No states would benefit from this arrangement unless they signed the convention.

Because of the opposition of the foreign ministers of some of the big powers, Poland today reluctantly trimmed down its original elaborate non-aggression pact until it became a mere skeleton of two articles. One of these forbids all war as a means of solving international disputes; the other stipulates that all international quarrels must be settled by pacific means.

Schmitt Pact to Powers.
The jurists of the great powers sat throughout the night and insisted that the word "war" should be modified to the phrase "war of aggression." The Polish representatives telegraphed Warsaw for instructions.

After keeping the wires busy and holding new discussions, the Poles notified the new text, which immediately was submitted privately to Sir Austen Chamberlain, Herr Stresemann and M. Briand. The Poles said that if the big powers did not accept the new draft the Polish delegation to the league would introduce a more drastic project and allow the assembly to fight out the question of whether it wants a genuine anti-war pact or something which is a mere meaningless expression of idealism.

Text of New Proposal.

The new text declares in the preamble that the assembly recognizes the solidarity binding the international community and is animated by the firm will to assure maintenance of general peace. It emphasizes that war should never be resorted to for settling disputes between nations, that an aggressive war is an international crime and that the solemn denunciation of all wars of aggression will create an atmosphere of general confidence favorable to disarmament.

The body of the resolution declares, first, that "every war of aggression is and will be forbidden"; and, second: "The assembly declares that the members of the league of nations are under obligation to obey this principle, and requests them to negotiate the idea of non-aggression inspired with the idea that pacific means should be employed for the settlement of differences."

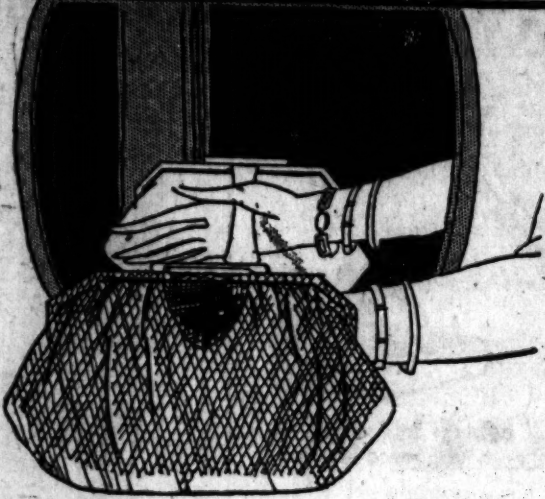

POSSE SEEKING SLAYER OF TWO STATE TROOPERS

BATAVIA, N. Y., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Two state troopers were shot dead today when they attempted to arrest W. Leroy Wagner on a charge of petit larceny.

The troopers found Wagner, who is 22 years old, at dinner with his family on their farm near Canadesea. When they told Wagner he was under arrest for defrauding a garage man of $4.25 he asked permission to go to his room to change his clothing. A few minutes later Trooper Roy received in the head the full charge of a shotgun, fired from an upstairs window. Trooper Rasmussen then darted up the stairs, pistol in hand. Before he had gained the upper floor he fell with a charge of shot in the side.

Tonight fifteen special deputy sheriffs and every available state trooper in the region searched the thickly wooded district around Canadesea for Wagner, who fled from the farm after the shooting.

WAY CLEARED FOR STATE TO BUILD WATERWAY LINK

Insult Interests Accept Offer for Rights.

Except for Gov. Small's signature to a document, Illinois now has the right of way to complete the state's link in the Lakes-Gulf waterway.

The deal which the governor must approve is the acceptance by Britton I. Budd, in behalf of the Insult interests, of an offer by the state for the purchase of property and water power rights at three points which have for years impeded the construction of the waterway.

If these terms are satisfactory to the governor, William F. Mulvihill, state superintendent of waterways, said that contracts for $7,000,000 may be let at once and that the nine foot channel is assured for 1930.

Purchase Price Is $775,000.

The purchase price which Mulvihill suggested in the latest negotiations and which the Insult people accepted, was $775,000. The amount first proposed by the Insult interests was $8,000,000 and $850,000 was the counter offer by Mulvihill.

For this sum the utility company agreed to relinquish all claim to property and power rights at Brandon road, at Dresden Island and at Marseilles.

Through the agreement, the state is in a position to complete the Brandon road project which includes, besides the construction of a lock and dam at Brandon road, two miles below Joliet, the placing of retaining walls along the course of the river through Joliet and the stretching of five bridges in that city. Submersible lands along the Illinois and Des Plaines rivers between Brandon road and Dresden Island may now be flooded and a lock and dam constructed at Dresden Island.

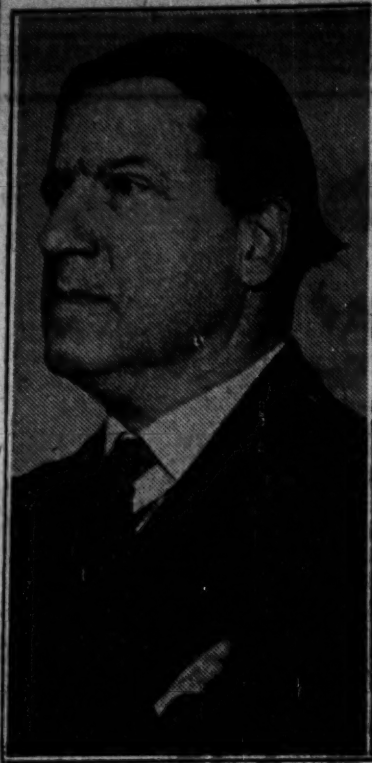

It was the offer of the utilities to include in the deal 247 acres of land through which the canal is to be cut connecting the Illinois river above Marseilles with the lock already built at Bell's Island below the city that induced Mulvihill to raise his offer from $850,000 to $775,000, he said.

Another Tract Bought.

Coincident with the announcement of the progress of these negotiations, Mulvihill reported that 430 acres of land adjoining the utilities' property south of the proposed Dresden Island dam had been bought from W. W. Walmsight.

Mulvihill anticipates no obstacles to the acquisition of a few strips of needed flood land and he said that they may be purchased as the work progresses.

The works at Lockport are completed except for the lock gates; the Starved Rock job is 45 per cent completed and progress is being made at Marseilles, Mulvihill reports. The Brandon road and the Dresden Island works are the remaining jobs.

Navy Seaplanes to Use Old Battleship for Bombing

Pensacola, Fla., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Beginning today and lasting through Friday and possibly Monday, the old and obsolete battleship Massachusetts, now lying half a mile from the shore line of Santa Rosa Island, abandoned by the navy department, will be the target for live bombs dropped from seaplanes.

The planes are to be in the hands of students of class 27, now in training at the naval air station.

The old hull has withstood shot and shell from ten inch batteries at Fort Pickens, about a mile distant. The bombs to be dropped by the seaplanes are said to be greater, from a standpoint of destruction, than anything in the shape of shot and shell ever received by the old battleship, which helped make history when Cervera's fleet tried to escape at Santiago.

JADWIN WARNS CITY TO PUT IN WATER METERS

Insists Thompson Defies War Department.

chief of army engineers, told the aid-military delegation which called upon him yesterday that 51 per cent of the city's entire water supply is metered, according to the figures obtained locally, by far the largest part of this amount is apparently consumed in factories, stores, hotels, offices, and other business and industrial buildings.

Metered Water Users Few.

An analysis of the bureau's figures show that about 5.5 per cent of the people living in small homes and about 7.5 per cent of those in flats and apartments use metered water. Otherwise stated, out of Chicago's 3,100,000 people, those getting water through meters number about 177,182, as compared to 2,922,818 getting it unmetered, without considering among users of metered water those who are in hotels, and who comprise about 4 per cent of the total.

The foregoing figures are generalizations. They might be changed by an actual count for, although the number and size of the existing meters are known, the number of persons using water passing through each meter is variable. No such count has been made by the water bureau or any of the meter experts.

Pipe Sizes Tell Story.

The computations presented are reached as follows: Adds from a scattered few installed since Jan. 1, 1927, there now are a total of 57,600 meters in service. Of these, 9,592 have 1/2 and 3/4 inch pipe connections, the size used in homes. Building department reports set the number of Chicago homes at 171,682. Therefore, about 5.5 per cent are metered. There are 15,857 meters with 1 and 1 1/4 inch pipe connections, the size in flats and apartments, of which there are a total of 255,658. Therefore about 7.5 per cent of these buildings are metered.

The health department estimates that 55 per cent of Chicago's population, or 2,000,000 people, live in small homes, and 70 per cent, or 2,170,000 people, in flats and apartments, leaving about 4 per cent as hotel residents. On this basis, it is found that the total number using metered water domestic ally is 177,182, or 5.7 per cent of the total population.

Under the terms of the war department permit to the sanitary district, allowing withdrawal of 4,500 cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan, the city must meter 55 per cent of its total water service, both domestic and industrial, in the year 1930 for 100 per cent. The plan of Mayor Thompson is to meter all water used for industrial purposes, but to exclude meters from small homes and apartments.

THOMPSON ASKS OMAHA'S AID IN FLOOD CONTROL

Visits Stockyards Where He Once Was Cowboy.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Omaha, Neb., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Mayor William Hale Thompson's party, on its way west in the interest of flood control and Mississippi valley unification, delivered its message to Omaha today. The mayor received promises of support for his program and votes of endorsement for the resolution adopted by the Chicago flood control conference.

Mayor James Dahlman of Omaha and Thompson had been cowboys together thirty years ago. Nebraska's senators and congressmen had helped in the passage of the Illinois waterway bill. Omaha had been represented at the flood conference.

T. A. Liesen, head of the Metropolitan Utility district, a municipal ownership body, arranged a luncheon for the Chicagoans. But first there was a trip to the stock exchange. Thompson said he felt at home in a stock yard, particularly in one where years ago he came with carloads of steers.

Business Men Interested.
"How much better off would you be if the Missouri river were made navigable—a nine foot channel from Omaha to New Orleans?" Thompson asked in opening his luncheon address.

"We of the Mississippi valley have the power to pass any legislation we want," the mayor continued. "When you get ready Chicago will help you get a waterway connecting you with St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Memphis, Vicksburg, Baton Rouge, and New Orleans."

The business men were interested in the mayor's talk.

"Neither Chicago nor Omaha can progress until all the inland waterways are developed and the Mississippi secured against future outbreaks," the mayor continued.

"The south can't lose a billion dollars without hurting Omaha and hurting Chicago."

Tells of River Trip.
Then he told the story of his trip down the river to New Orleans last April. Mention was made of the flood conference, of his program of "America first and no foreign entanglements."

"How can you help?" he asked the business people, and then he gave his answer.

"Well, I'm not talking politics, but Illinois will send fifty delegates to the convention of the party of which I am a member. Bill Thompson would like to see those principles adopted by all parties."

The Chicagoans will be in Denver tomorrow.

JUDGE RESENTS CHILD ADOPTION TO GET PROFIT

Child adoption with intention of exploiting the child's earnings was condemned by County Judge L. L. Weaver yesterday as he vacated an order compelling Miss Ruth Killen, 25, of 437 Melrose avenue, to contribute $10 a week for the support of her foster father, James Killen, 62 years old. The support order was entered Tuesday with Killen being aided in his petition by his divorced wife, Mrs. Bertha Fisher, of 4047 Kenmore avenue.

Miss Killen told the judge that shortly after her adoption, when she was 17, she became the sole support of her foster parents.

She added that just a few weeks ago, her foster mother attempted to adopt a four year old girl to train the child as a dancer, making her a source of income.

ABOLISH STREET CARS FOR BUSES, SAYS COMMITTEE

Abolition of street cars and the use of buses instead is advocated in a bulletin issued yesterday by the Municipal Ownership central committee, an organization headed by Henry M. Ashton. The only way to get the surface lines out of politics, says the bulletin, is through public ownership. It advocates use of the city's $15,000,000 traction fund to buy 4,400 buses at $10,000 each, a total of $44,000,000, leaving $11,000,000 for garages. Mr. Ashton, Edwin Hamilton, Mrs. Florence Hanson, August Knickels, and James A. Meade comprise the committee.

CHICAGO GUNMAN SHOT IN DETROIT OVER KIDNAPINGS

Police Call Him Leader of Extortionists.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 8.—[Special.]—Detroit's underworld gave answer Tuesday, the police say, to the band of gunmen which has been kidnaping gamblers and bootleggers and extorting huge sums for their release. Raymond Schocker, said to be a Chicago gunman, was invited by two men to step into a suite in the Carlton Plaza hotel and have a drink. A few moments later guests reported hearing shots in the suite. When the door was battered down Schocker was found lying on the floor with six bullets in his body. His skull had been fractured by blows. "It was a holdup," he gasped. "No it wasn't," said a detective. "It was a rap." "All right, it was a rap," said Schocker. Since then investigation has convinced the police, and they assert it as a fact, that Schocker was the victim of gunmen hired by underworld leaders to exterminate the gang of extortionists. Doctors said Schocker had a chance to recover. Detective Inspector Henry J. Garvin said Schocker was the leader of a gang which has taken six of Detroit's underworld kings "for a ride." Schocker had $4,800 in his pockets. He said he had brought it here from St. Louis to purchase liquor, but the police do not believe him.

U. S. MAY ACT ON CHARGES IN FAVORITE CASE

Federal grand jury action against any one of the state courts found guilty of criminal negligence in connection with the steamship inspection service on the excursion boat Favorita, whose sinking off Lincoln park caused a loss of twenty-seven lives, was postponed yesterday by United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson. District Attorney Johnson said he will ask the bureau of investigation of the department of justice to make a thorough investigation into the matter. This action followed the verdict Wednesday of the coroner's jury which attacked the government inspection of excursion boats on Lake Michigan as "lax, inefficient, negligent, and perhaps criminal." Capt. John F. Hansen of the United States board of steamship inspection said he believed the jury failed to give proper consideration to weather conditions at the time of the disaster.

U. S. ARMY JUDGE ARRIVES TO PROBE PANAMA COURTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] BALBOA, Canal Zone, Sept. 8.—Lieut. Col. Trent, judge advocate of the United States army, arrived here yesterday. When questioned regarding the mission entrusted to him by the war department to investigate the Canal Zone judiciary, Lieut. Col. Trent said he could make no statement until after he saw the governor today. The Canal Zone labor forces still are agitated over the appointment of a military man to investigate a question in which civilians are vitally concerned but have reached no definite decision regarding the procedure to follow.

ITALIAN BASILICA IS ROBBED; TAKE 2 MASTERPIECES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] ROME, Sept. 8.—Motor scouts of the Italian police are scouring the country in a frantic search for the authors of a daring theft, the robbing of the famous memorial basilica at Florence of two of its most precious jewels. A Donatello frieze and two wooden statues by Donatello's pupil, Bertoldo, have mysteriously disappeared from the great wooden frame containing Donatello's bronze relief scenes of the life of Christ. The thieves carefully detached the wooden parts, covering the frame with strips of black paper. Both masterpieces had been recently detached at the request of the French professor, Soulier, who wished to study Donatello's system of modeling. Prof. Soulier's request was granted by the art department of the Italian government. The parts were again put in their original place on Aug. 28 under the surveillance of the proper authorities.

HILL ON HIS WAY HOME TO FACE
MURDER CHARGEYouth to Pass Through Chicago Sunday.

While Harry D. Hill, 22, of Streator, Ill., as a prisoner was speeding eastward last night from Seattle, Wash., toward Chicago, he was drawing an indictment charging him with the murder of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Hill, 48, who was found dead in the basement of her home, 114 South State St., on Wednesday night of Dr. H. C. Hill, prominent Streator physician, divorced husband of the slain woman. Chief of Police William Robb of Streator, Sheriff Lloyd Clark of La Salle county, and Assistant State's Attorney Chester Jacobson are bringing young Hill back.

Young Hill's decision to waive extradition and return to Streator at once was made following the arrival at Chicago on Wednesday night of Dr. H. C. Hill, prominent Streator physician, divorced husband of the slain woman. Chief of Police William Robb of Streator, Sheriff Lloyd Clark of La Salle county, and Assistant State's Attorney Chester Jacobson are bringing young Hill back.

Ready for Speedy Trial.
Mr. Hill stated last night no special session of the La Salle county grand jury would be called, but he would ask indictment by regular session of the October grand jury and would follow the return of an indictment with a declaration of readiness to proceed to trial immediately.

Dr. Hill reassured his belief in his early innocence. He said the youth had been because of fright, not sense of guilt, the day the body of Mrs. Hill was found.

"Harry was panic stricken," Dr. Hill said. "He will be able to explain everything at the proper time."
"Since talking with him here I'm more firmly convinced than ever that he could not have deliberately killed his mother. In fact, when arrested, he was preparing to return to Streator. He had sold his car and bought a bus ticket to San Francisco and was going from there home."

"Anything I have is his to help him with a complete vindication."

Young Says Little.
Except to deny his guilt, young Hill has said little since his father retained counsel for him in Seattle. Harry Hill, his captors, and his father are expected to reach Chicago Sunday.

Chief of Police Robb of Streator informed Seattle officials that a "perfectly circumstantial case" exists against Harry Hill.

"We've never had cause to suspect any one but Hill, and there's no out for him on an alibi," said Robb. "I guess he'll have to put up an insanity defense. He acted queer to me when I talked to him yesterday. Didn't seem to know what it was all about, the way he grinned and fidgeted about."

Mr. Hanson yesterday eliminated from suspicion every one except young Hill. Mr. Hanson indicated he would be Robert L. Honeycutt, poolroom manager of Hill, who is in custody

VALESKA SURATT SUES
DE MILLE FOR MILLION
AS PLAY PLAGIARIST

New York, Sept. 8.—(AP)—A plagiarism suit for $1,000,000 against Cecil De Mille and others connected with the production and distribution of the biblical spectacle "The King of Kings" was filed in Supreme court today by Valeska Suratt, former stage and screen star.

Miss Suratt charges that the motion picture was plagiarized from the book "Mary Magdalen" by Mirra Ahmed Schrab, to which she owned the exclusive motion picture rights.

Other parties to the suit are Jeanie MacPherson, scenarist of all the big De Mille films, who wrote the screen play, the Keith-Albee vaudeville circuit, the Producers' Distributing corporation, and Cecil B. De Mille Pictures corporation.

Miss Suratt charged that the biblical picture was made after she had submitted Schrab's book to De Mille, on the advice of Will H. Hays, but that De Mille rejected it after keeping it five months. She declared that the screen spectacle embodies all the essential features of Schrab's book. She seeks an injunction restraining the defendants from violation of her rights.

at Streator, as Honeycutt has given a satisfactory story, and in the absence of evidence against him.

Dr. Hill hurried to Peoria for a secret conference with a brother, an Athens, Ill. physician, after suspecting that something was "wrong" at the Hill home, it was revealed yesterday upon the return to Streator of Dr. George A. Dicus, friend of the Hill family.

Earl Herbert, a member of the Saltis-McEriane beer running gang, is to be the first victim in the renewal of the police department's policy of padded cells for criminals. At 9 o'clock this morning Herbert will be taken to the office of Dr. William J. Hickson of the city psychopathic laboratory to be given the new test system brought back from Europe by Dr. Hickson, and called by him "gestalt-psychologic."

Herbert, who has been arrested many times with Joe Saltis and other members of the gang, but who has nearly always escaped after a few hours in a cell, was told last night by Deputy Chief of Detectives Michael Grady that he was to be given the new test.

He complained bitterly of the contemplated action, which several weeks ago caused Frank McEriane and his brother Vincent to jump.

Herbert was arrested at 9 o'clock yesterday morning by Sgt. Thomas Cooper and his detective bureau squad at 614 and Halsted streets.

IN SHEEP'S CLOTHING.

In the news of yesterday, proceedings for the release and retrial of the former head of the Indiana klan paralleled reports of the latest efforts of leading Indianapolis editors to force the governor of the state to clear up serious charges against him. Across a page of THE TRIBUNE today spreads a picture of politics in a great American commonwealth which is not pleasant for any American, and especially for any Indian, to face.

The meaning of the Indiana situation should not be shirked. The "unsavory political mess"—we use the Indianapolis Star's phrase—is the product of what purports to be moral reform. Stephenson as head of the klan was boss of Indiana politics with the support of the churches. Jackson was his candidate and he hired preachers to speak for Jackson and women leaders to organize for him. It was all in the odor of sanctity and its results give the church people and unpolitical clergy of Indiana something serious to think about. They were betrayed and the state of Indiana was betrayed in the name of morality and religion. It is a warning to any community that all is not gold that glitters. Assertions of moral purpose, church affiliations, and the pretensions of politicians who would make use of church influence in political action are not guaranteed value. They may hide, and in Indiana and other communities they have hid, corruption and misgovernment. Not only religious or sectarian partisanship but even the finest church loyalties, when they are drawn into politics, inevitably will be used by unscrupulous ambition for its own ends. The result is not the purifying of politics but the confusion of political judgment and action and the misguidance of the public conscience by false leaders.

This is a far more important and difficult task than any in our relations with all but the leading world powers, yet so hidebound and unrealistic is the official policy of our diplomacy that appointment to almost any second rank European legation outrates those to Latin American posts. This fact illustrates more pointedly than any other the need for a thoroughgoing reform, a revolution, in fact, in our diplomatic organization. We could wish that our present able chief of the department of state would direct his attention seriously to this subject.

TO A SOUTHERN EDITOR.

We are in receipt of a clipping containing an editorial from the News and Courier of Charleston, S. C., assailing us for our editorial utterances concerning the repudiated debts of certain southern states. The southern editorial writer flicks over his history book to the dark days of the carpet-bagger and asks:

"Does THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE hold now that South Carolina should pay debts contracted by a gang of robbers protected by the armed forces of the United States?"

Whether inadvertently or purposefully, this editorial writer has not given his attention to what we have said on certain previous occasions concerning the debts of the southern states. We reiterate our position by assuring him that not only do we hold South Carolina not responsible for debts which were contracted under duress and often under corruption and not only do we advocate the assumption of these debts by the federal government, but we go further and hold that debts for which South Carolina and other southern states are responsible in law and in conscience should be assumed by the federal government if the states cannot be persuaded of their duty to make payment.

America's action in pressing for a settlement of the obligations incurred by its allies in the world war was responsible for reviving the question of the southern debts. That question is an old one; the facts are befogged by time and tangled in the legislative procedures of the states during periods of economic, social, and political distress. General knowledge is all that we have to go on until some future investigation discloses the truth or an approximation of the truth.

Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, and South Carolina are the states commonly known to have repudiated obligations. The principal in default is estimated to be in the neighborhood of $60,000,000. The total obligation, with accrued interest, has been figured variously from $180,000,000 to $250,000,000. The international aspect of the question rests on the fact that a large portion of the repudiated state bonds were and are held in Great Britain.

There can be no quarrel between the point of view of the Charleston editor and our own as to the justifiability of separating the debts repudiated by the southern states. Loans to the southern states during the civil war were legally repudiated. Obligations entered into voluntarily by the state government must be distinguished from those entered into under the duress of carpetbagger rule. Among the southern states in question South Carolina has perhaps one of the best cases of all for insisting that the state government is not responsible for the debts contracted following the civil war.

Where we disagree perhaps with our fellow editorial writer is in believing that the debts justly contracted should be paid by the southern states. But even at that point we shall not be particular. The reputation and the credit of the United States demand the payment to foreign creditors of these state obligations whether the states recognize the debts or not. Congress should act to settle the debts contracted under carpetbagger rule and should go further and settle them all if it can constitutionally do so. This country, when its character is in question by foreign nations, cannot afford to seek cover behind the legal distinction between federal and state obligations.

It will require an international commission and a long period of research and discussion before the true amount of the debts and the bona fide creditors can be discovered, but the trouble will be worth while.

For our part we shall be glad to see Illinois taxpayers share in wiping the slate clean—of carpetbagger debts and lawful debts. And we hope we have made our position clear to the Charleston News and Courier.

OUR REPRESENTATIVES IN LATIN AMERICA.

The assertion of a Chilean delegate to the league of nations that he saw no reason why the league should not interest itself in political problems outside of Europe suggests some interesting speculations to the citizen of the United States. Of course, the league has interested itself in problems the locus of which is outside Europe, though European interests were involved, as the opium trade of India and China. But the Chilean delegate undoubtedly intended to suggest that the league might undertake to settle disputes in the western hemisphere, and we do not see how his assertion can be gainsaid. If Chile and Argentina wish to appeal to the league for its good offices they are obviously within their rights as sovereign states. If war threatened between Latin American members of the league it would doubtless be within the rights and duties of the league to offer its good offices or to take such measures as the terms of the league covenant accepted by the nations involved authorize.

Certainly the United States has no right to deny and does not deny the attributes of sovereignty to the independent nations of the western hemisphere. The Monroe Doctrine is willfully misinterpreted when it is alleged to do so. But the Monroe Doctrine is an assertion of policy which might be involved in action taken by the league, and in such case it would be enforced by appropriate measures—not in derogation of other nations' rights, but in enforcement of our own international interests. The Chilean delegate's suggestion, therefore, does open possibilities of serious complications, and it will be interesting to observe its development, if it is to be followed up seriously. Meanwhile, we may meditate upon the foresight and wisdom of such Latin American statesmanship as can be tempted by distrust or dislike of the United States into submitting its affairs to the tender mercies of European diplomacy.

The possibilities of such a course of policy ought also to impress upon the American nation and its successive secretaries of state the importance of strong and able representation in South and Central America. This need increases, but it is not yet realized at Washington or elsewhere. Our foreign policy has been too much preoccupied with Europe and our diplomatic organization too much governed by its bureaucratic traditions. It is by no means easy to find the type of representative we need, but there should be a definite and determined effort to find and place them. Our relations with our Latin American neighbors are being poisoned, and if the persistent propaganda against us is not met the eventualities will be unfortunate for us and for the peace and progress of the whole community of western nations.

This is a far more important and difficult task than any in our relations with all but the leading world powers, yet so hidebound and unrealistic is the official policy of our diplomacy that appointment to almost any second rank European legation outrates those to Latin American posts. This fact illustrates more pointedly than any other the need for a thoroughgoing reform, a revolution, in fact, in our diplomatic organization. We could wish that our present able chief of the department of state would direct his attention seriously to this subject.

Editorial of the Day

FUTILE PRESS CENSORSHIP.

(The New York Times.)

It is not surprising that the council of the league of nations wants more time to investigate before passing on the resolution of the international press conference condemning all forms of press censorship except in the gravest emergencies. Some governments have never realized that censorship, with even the more drastic plan of expelling foreign correspondents, in the long run does no good. It is possible to withhold unfavorable news or opinion by delaying press dispatches or by cutting out offending portions. The expulsion of a correspondent may temporarily still an unwelcome voice. But with that national curiosity which makes the average man more interested in what is withheld than in what is freely given, the public in other countries is likely to pay all the more attention to what has been censored (when, as always happens, it gets through) and to show a greater interest in the remarks of a correspondent who has been sent away. Both systems, incidentally, place a premium on news from outside and often unfriendly sources.

The excuse for censorship is that, without it, all manner of misrepresentations can be sent abroad in the form of "news." This occasionally happens. But experience has shown that in most cases every unfair or adverse statement is offset by fair and favorable dispatches. The difficulty of obtaining accurate foreign news is often great. But the earnest effort of nearly all correspondents is to discover what is actually taking place and faithfully to report events. Several nations of Europe and some of the eastern countries find it hard to admit freedom for foreign news. It is the same there as in England and the United States. Many continental newspapers are personal or government organs and open their columns for pay. A notorious case in point was the campaign carried on in French newspapers by Russia prior to the world war. When such practices prevail it is not strange that certain governments hesitate to give foreign correspondents a free rein. Fortunately, the standard of English and American newspapers is altogether different. Their foreign correspondents, in so far as it is humanly possible, have sought to obtain the news and to transmit it without fear or favor. This system is, in the long run, to the best interests of all concerned.

AND COLLECTS 'EM, TOO.

The devil collects His dues everywhere, But in Chicago He seems to levy a lot Of special assessments.

How to Keep Well

To the limit of space, questions pertinent to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

"PERSONAL HYGIENE FOR WOMEN."

SOMEWHERE about a dozen years ago the writer of this column put out a booklet with the title "Personal Hygiene for Women." This booklet had two main objects. Its major purpose was to tell women how to continue at work (or play) without dropping out every month for two or three days' sickness absenteeism. In their contact with men, women were being compelled to accept less pay and to take the worse end of it partly because of this limitation. A perfectly normal function, which should entail no hardship, had been given the name of sickness, and women were paying the penalty.

A part of the trouble lay with women themselves. They had accepted the name and were doing the part. The moderate but bearable amount of discomfort lent itself to the role of sickness and being sick. As a further basis for the assumption that this was a sickness, a small number of women do have pelvic pathology which results in symptoms that are properly called a sickness.

As a part of this objective it was hoped that women might be induced to stop using whitey, aspirin or other powerful and harmful drugs at that time.

A second, somewhat important objective, was to tell elderly women that the discomfort occurring at the time of the change of life was not a serious condition, as the cataclysmic nature of the flushes suggests, and to indicate a few helps in riding over the period of storm.

There was a certain other objective, though minor in importance, which entered into the circulation of this booklet. Many thousands of this booklet have been given away during these years. We are still getting them, and we still send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

We will continue doing as long as it seems advisable, although at times we think nearly every woman who needs one must have had one or had access to one.

However, a book on the subject, covering part of the ground, and written in the same spirit, now available for those who will purchase a book, it is written by Dr. Celia Mosher, and it has borrowed the title which our booklet has borne so long.

It tells women that they should not think of this function as a sickness and that under ordinary circumstances sickness absenteeism is not justified. The frame of mind is about half the battle, and this Dr. Mosher makes positive, definite and clear.

For the physical and she recommends a series of simple exercises which any woman can carry out in her bedroom or anywhere else. The exercises are neither strenuous nor difficult. For that matter, these exercises are given in the present edition of our booklet, but Dr. Mosher gives them better than we do.

I hope it may reach a great many women. If it does we will discontinue our booklet, as we did with our social hygiene booklet when health departments assumed the burden of supplying such booklets.

CORRECT WEIGHT FOR BABY.

Mrs. V. C. writes: I is 14 pounds the right weight for a 1½ month old child who weighed 9 pounds at birth? The answer is both yes and no.

1. Your baby should gain weight a little faster than the average, but do not speed her up until after mid-September.

2. Write to the U. S. children's bureau, department of labor, for a booklet, "C and to your state and city health department for booklets on babies."

If this does not fill your five foot sheet, write to me for sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BLOOD IN STOOLS.

Mrs. G. J. writes: What does it indicate if one finds blood in the stools several mornings in succession? I believe this is quite a common experience, but it seems to me it may be a sign of something seriously wrong.

REPLY: Hemorrhoids, in all probability. If not, it may be cancer. Unless, plainly due to hemorrhoids the case should be investigated.

PLANS FOR SEWER. Chicago, Aug. 31.—(Friend of the People.)—Does the city intend to lay a sewer on 140th street from Prospect avenue to Charles street?

REPLY: There has been an estimate made for the proposed sewer in this street and a public hearing is expected to be held in the near future.

A. J. SCHAFMEYER, Assistant Chief Engineer of Sewers.

ORDINANCE PROVIDES PAYING.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—(Friend of the People.)—Why is Bryn Mawr avenue being paved in the wilderness, between Crawford and Central Park avenues, while built-up neighborhoods, as between Western and Lincoln avenues, must wait years for the improvement?

A. S. There is an ordinance passed for paving Bryn Mawr avenue, from Western to the north shore channel, and we hope to do the work next year.

EDWARD J. GLACKIN, Secretary Board of Local Improvements.

WHOLESALE DUMPING.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—(Friend of the People.)—A whole block of people dump their garbage in one spot in the alley in the 3600 block of West Ohio street. Half of the block is no longer fit to live in.

Report is made that notices have been served on householders to stop further dumping and to provide necessary receptacles for the accommodation of refuse outside. Collections are made weekly in this district.

THOMAS H. BYRNE, Superintendent of Streets.

COACH SERVICE. Chicago, Aug. 31.—(Friend of the People.)—Will there be any bus service on Montrose avenue west of Milwaukee avenue, and if so, how far west will they run?

E. W. O. We do not contemplate any operation of this nature at this time. G. T. SEELY, Vice President Chicago Motor Coach Company.

SUMAC. I have seen the tiled towns Up and down the Rhine, I have heard the bells of Bonn In sweet Beethoven chime, But I've come back to stand beneath A Minnesota pine— In a great pine's shadow, Near the basswood and the birch, I've come back to simple things From weary, fruitless search; And in the fire of sumac I'll see the colors run Until the woods are all aflame Like the setting sun.

ABOKING. MUSSOLINI made an address yesterday in four languages. We'll bet that with all four he can't say more than Charley Dawes can in one.

JABBO OF OLD DESQUEUR. Maybe. And Maybe Not. R. H. L.: Tell Gin Ricky to go roll his hoop. ASH to CAN is simply swell for Paul, and no half-baked boob of a man can think of a better one. Now, then—allowing Paul two days to write his signature, we should have it by Monday—yes? ORPHAN OLLIE.

"THE FULLMAN PORTERS WANT A Ban on Tips"—Ch. Dolly Noyce. Just clip that out and show it to George when he dusts you off with one hand and the other extended and held coaxingly out. George is going to deny that story with great emphasis.

A Natural Inquiry. RHL: We had just been introduced and he began to tell me about his favorite dance hall. "Say," he said, "ya oughta see the swell waltzes that go up there every Sunday to shake their feet! They're the bow-wow-wow." "Pardon me," I said, helplessly, "but your particular brand of patois—or argot—is entirely new to my untutored ears. If you would be so obliging as to repeat your words and couch them in—" "Say, kid," he said, bewilderedly, "canecha speak English?"

BIG BILL said in St. Paul that the Mississippi valley is the "backbone of the nation." A valley with a frolicsome river in it does not come up to our idea of a backbone. The Mississippi valley, Bill, reminds us more of the floating kidneys of the sphinx, or the esophagus, or something like that, but hardly the backbone, Bill, hardly the backbone.

HE BRUISES EASILY, USE THE GARDEN HOSE. Dick: Last night while looking through Shelby's This to That I was rather surprised to learn that my dear husband had been permitted to go from LEARN to SPEEL and had succeeded in proving how dumb he is. So I dragged him away from the kitchen window (he's always hanging out that window arguing with the janitor—some day the janitor will sock him) and remarked:

"Well, I see you are among The chosen 180." "Yup," he replied.

"And just how were these 180 chosen?" I asked. "Oh," replied What I Married, "we are Who's Who with the Dumb-bells eliminated; we are the Who's Who of the infirmity after the Oysters have been taken out; we are—"

BOO HOO HOOOOOO!!! Honest, I didn't mean to cripple Him—I only meant to bruise him.

THE BLONDE FLAPPER. No, No! Don't Call Him That! It May Be Lon Chaney.

THIS IS A PERSONAL LETTER to Old Doc Yak, and you know how rude it is to read other people's personal letters. Now that this is strictly between us, Doc, can you explain why the inhabitants of these United States, from Portland, Me., to Seattle, Wash., are complaining to us of your conduct and sending their complaints by telegraph, air mail, special delivery, registered and garden-variety two-cent stamps? We can't imagine what you've done to make yourself so thoroughly unpopular; but from the letters we rather that you're a goof, a boob, a poor fish, a fraud, a concocted member of the spirit of brotherhood, the need of the extension of the spirit of the strengthening of the character of man by the initiative taught him in the unions, and the quality of bravery and energy taught the railway man by the men of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and citizens of Chattanooga.

SCANDALOUS ACTIONS FOR A MAN WITH A WIFE AND NINE CHILDREN

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 9, 1862.

WASHINGTON.—Gens. Jackson and Longstreet and their rebel forces have crossed the upper Potomac and have occupied Frederick, Md. A large Union force has been sent against them. A refugee who crossed with Longstreet's wagon train estimates his force at 40,000 although it is claimed by rebel officers to be 50,000. The crossing was effected at midnight and without opposition. Longstreet crossed at Nolan's Ferry as did Jackson. Rebels boast that on Thursday and Friday nights at least 80,000 men and 100 pieces of artillery were carried into Maryland. Gen. Hill's force, estimated

COOLIDGE TODAY BIDS FAREWELL TO BLACK HILLS

Reluctant to Leave His Recent Summer Haunts.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Rapid City, S. D., Sept. 8.—(Special.)—In these golden autumn days President Coolidge is saying good-by reluctantly to the Black Hills, his favorite trails and streams, and particularly to that wide and peaceful view that has been his daily solace and inspiration as he rides from the summer White House to his school house executive office.

The lonely, scattered farm houses, the little white church on the Hermosa hill, the dim dark ridges, the winding streams, the cattle on far ranges, the more intimate animal life around the game lodge, come in for special attention now. For the Coolidges are going home tomorrow. The secret service advance car left today. The school children are tip toeing around behind screens and piled up desks, getting ready to resume their orderly tasks as soon as the President moves out.

Town Plans a Farewell.
He is not doing much work and seeing only a few people for handshaking. The town has accepted him and he comes and goes with little attention. They realize now that he is going away and are planning a big demonstration of affection for tomorrow. The President is expected to say a few words to the gathering in front of his office.

Misses Trip to Bad Lands.
Mrs. Coolidge came into town today and strolled around the streets buying souvenirs and John came in early, had breakfast at a Main street restaurant, and went for a trip to the Bad Lands. The President had intended to make this trip to see the freak geological formations of the district, but never found the time to go. Today he stopped in with Mrs. Coolidge at the state school of mines and spent nearly an hour looking over fossil exhibits from this world famous rock bed, listening while Prof. C. C. O'Hara, head of the school, told of the ages to which these bones of extinct animals testify.

The President is in excellent health as a result of his summer in this dry, cool air, and will take up his burdens at the White House next Monday with renewed physical vigor and fresh mental outlook.

Four Other Children Hurt;
Schools to Act.

With two school children dead and four seriously injured in automobile accidents yesterday, J. Lewis Coath, president of the board of education, announced that training in safety will be inaugurated in the Chicago schools. Statistics show that 216 pupils have been killed by auto's in the last year.

In addition to the training course, Mr. Coath said he will confer with Deputy Chief of Police Ira McDowell on a proposal to station policemen who have been disabled for active duty on street corners near schools to watch children.

Agnes Jerome, 14 years old, 2508 Augusta street, was critically injured by a truck that ran onto the sidewalk and struck her as she was standing beside her mother and sister near their home. An automobile driven by Robert J. Wotepka, 5232 West 24th street, Cicero, struck Jack Downey, 8 years old, 5221 Van Buren street, at Van Buren and Laramie avenue, breaking his leg and inflicting a possible skull fracture.

CAN'T SEE STRAIGHT, WHEN YOU OVERTAKE, PHYSICIANS PROVE

Overtaking directly affects the eyes, it was announced yesterday by J. Frank Pearcey of the department of physiology and Dr. Thomas Dyer Allen, ophthalmologist in Rush Medical college, after experiments performed on each other.

"In the experiments one of us was used as a subject," their report reads. "The alimentary tract was distended by a Rehfuss stomach tube which the subject swallowed. A balloon at the end of the stomach tube was blown up to the required size.

"Such a distention of the stomach produces effects similar to those arising from eating a large meal. Within a minute or two after distending the gastric balloon the subject became drowsy. Extra effort was required to read and the attention lagged. Examination of the eye showed that its accommodation was reduced and vision impaired."

2444 South State street, driver of the automobile, was arrested. Ignace J. Suchowski, 42 years old, 5311 Honoré street, was fatally injured when the automobile in which he and Louis Bars of the same address were riding crashed into a street

Haberdashery Ensembles in your color... for Fall

RED-HAIRED MAN

Quiet colorings are best—navy blue and grey are invariably successful and the right shade of green effective. Avoid browns and reds.

BROWN-HAIRED MAN

Indistinct blues, mauves, and greys in patterned shirts with certain tones of blue, and rich purple in ties and socks. Greys or pastel shades, and the sharp contrast of solid colors should be avoided.

FAIR-HAIRED MAN

In suits, the paler tones of oatmeal and biscuit should be avoided, but in haberdashery any color except red or purple is successful.

BROWN-HAIRED MAN

Subdued tones in shirts are suggested and all colors in haberdashery except golden browns and greys, pink and bright reds.

THIS Autumn, apparel haphazardly chosen is not being done. Instead, ensembles with the most effective scheme of color and pattern for each personality that are styled as a unit, bought as a unit, and worn as a unit. We suggest this shirt, tie, socks, and handkerchief ensemble in your color, complete for $9.50

BRITON BLAMES CHINESE WAR ON A POWER TREATY

Says Washington Pact Is No Safeguard.

BY JOHN POWELL.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
HONGKONG, Sept. 8.—Sir Frederick Whyte, president of the legislative assembly of India and head of the British delegation to the recent London conference at Hongkong, in an address here today said it was questionable whether the Washington four power treaty provided an effective substitute for the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

The Anglo-Japanese alliance, he said, was a peace preserver for many years before the present evils arose, and while he was glad the four power treaty was negotiated, it must be developed and provisions must be made for an efficient consideration of Pacific problems, otherwise serious trouble impends in the Pacific.

Warns Against Russia.

Sir Frederick said that while Europe gradually is developing machinery for the preservation of peace, similar facilities are lacking in the nations of the Pacific since the abrogation of the Anglo-Japanese alliance and the failure of the four power treaty to provide a substitute. He stated his belief that it is impossible to isolate the Pacific from consideration in Chinese questions.

PROTEST TO PEKING

BY RODERICK MATHESON.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

TOKYO, Sept. 8.—The Japanese minister to Peking has presented a protest against the recent anti-Japanese demonstration in Mukden, Manchuria, while the minister of war announced today his readiness to dispatch troops to Manchuria whenever they are required. The minister says he first will transfer the troops now within leased territory and "in case these prove insufficient, Japan will not hesitate to dispatch troops from home. It is not yet time to take any steps. We will see how the protest filed with Peking proceeds."

59 FREED, BUT WITH WARNING THEY GET ACCOUNTS IN BANK

Fifty-nine tired looking men, who were shabbily clad, sat in the Des Plaines street court yesterday. Judge Peter H. Schwab was informed by his clerk that they were held on a charge of vagrancy. The judge looked about the room and counted exactly fifty-nine men. He then said: "I want every working man in the crowd to stand up."

Immediately the fifty-nine jumped to their feet.

"Fine!" said the judge. "Now every one of you who hasn't a bank account sit down."

The nine and fifty dropped into their seats.

"Discharged in every case," the court said. "If any one of you ever comes in here again without a bank book with at least a five dollar deposit I'll send you to the Bridewell. File out."

They did, and it didn't take fifty-nine seconds to do it.

main there, the commander having fled with other officials. Troops sent against the oncoming troops of the peasants' union were defeated yesterday and fled in great disorder. Foreign warships are ready to take their nationals aboard.

The United States destroyer Parrott replied to a southern attack today near Nanking with its 4 inch guns. The U. S. destroyer Pigeon rescued a junk belonging to the Standard Oil Company of New York, and the attacking soldiers were seized after having bound the junk's captain and tearing the flag to bits. The British warship Cock-shafer, attacked while conveying steamers, replied with its main batteries.

Survivor Guarded After Still Blasts Kill Three

Prohibition agents in the Wesley Memorial hospital last night were guarding Louis J. Candall, 11322 Prairie avenue, the only survivor among four men involved early yesterday morning in explosions in alcohol plants at 2010 South Wabash avenue, and 2648 Prairie avenue. Candall is reputed owner of the Prairie avenue place. Candall and Joseph Bangora, owner of the Wabash avenue alcohol plant who was killed by the explosion there, were said to have been fighting rival alcohol dealers.

LONELY OLD MEN OF NORTH SHORE WILL HAVE CLUB

The elderly men of the north shore suburbs are to have a gathering place where they can meet and settle the disputed problems of the nation and discuss other topics of the day, it was announced yesterday by C. M. Cartwright, secretary of the Evanston Community Recreation association.

The upper story of the association's clubhouse on Lincoln street, Evanston, is to be given over as a gathering place. President Thomas F. Leahy says a survey shows that many men, who have passed the active stage of life, are lonely and desire companionship.

"We are going to provide comfortable quarters for these men," said Mr. Leahy. "We will have recreational features and our managing director, William L. McGowan, will be glad to talk with elderly men of Evanston, Wilmette and the northern part of Chicago, who desire to avail themselves of our privileges, which will be without cost to them."

Celebrate 75th Anniversary of Eye and Ear Infirmary

Several physicians who have been on the staff of the Illinois Eye and Ear Infirmary, 204 West Adams street, for many years helped celebrate the institution's seventy-fifth anniversary at dinner last night. Dr. T. J. Gardner, who has been on the staff for fifty years, was one of the speakers. Other speakers were Drs. V. J. Grin, H. Spettcher, and Dr. E. J. Findley, who have been on the staff more than 35 years. The first year the institution was founded it cared for 238 patients. In 1926 more than 100,000 were treated.

Gets Baseball Scores, Fire Engines, Loses Steak

The Oak Park fire department, in response to an alarm, arrived too late to save a steak in the kitchen of Mrs. Katie Huber, 218 North Humphrey avenue, last evening. Mrs. Huber had put a steak on the broiler and then sat down to get the baseball scores over the family radio. The steak broiled crisp and then alarmed the neighbors with its smoke. They called the fire department. "Where is the fire?" asked Chief William C. Waters. It had gone when the steak did, but Mrs. Huber had the scores.

342D INFANTRY OFFICERS NEAR END OF TRAINING

Officers of the 342d infantry, a Chicago regiment in the 85th (reserve) division, will complete two weeks of intensive training at Fort Sheridan tomorrow. The officers are about equally divided between those who served in the world war and those who won commissions through college military units and civilian military training camps.

Because of the number of veterans among the officers, this year's training mostly has been in combat problems under the instruction of the veterans. Problems were worked out in the ravines and woods about Fort Sheridan.

The younger officers have been taught the care of newly raised citizen soldiers, such as would be expected of them in case of a general mobilization. Of the regiment's total of 103 officers, 10 were present at Fort Sheridan. Most of the others were at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., for the training last year. The regiment is commanded by Col. John Dora.

BRITISH LABOR CUTS TIES WITH MOSCOW'S REDS

Vote Against Russians Is Overwhelming.

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Russian communism today suffered the worst international setback of its history. The British Trade Union congress voted by 2,541,000 to 420,000 to sever all relations with the all-Russian council of trade unions.

The seriousness of the blow lies in the fact that the British trade union movement is the strongest in the world and has tried to maintain relations with the Russian workers. Now, however, it is fully convinced that the Russian trade union is only another name for the communist Red international, for which the British unionists have no use.

Angered at Russian's Letter.

The final break was caused by a letter from M. Tomsky, chief of the Red unions, attacking British labor leaders and laying down the law as to the policy of British unions. Ramsay MacDonald, former labor prime minister, speaking today at the trade union congress, made a plea for international peace. "British labor will never succeed except on conditions of international peace," he said.

Olives Secret Diplomacy.

"Today we see in Europe secret diplomacy, private arrangements for the suppression of rights of small nationalities, and abortive discussions on armaments, and no one, since the labor government has been in office, has faced in this country the real problem of international peace and disarmament."

RAID REVEALS HOW BOOTLEGGER USES TANK CARS

Transportation of alcohol in tank cars similar to those used by gasoline dealers was found yesterday by prohibition agents to be a new idea in use by bootleggers when dry raiders confiscated a large still at 521 River Grove avenue, River Grove.

John Ritchie and John Meyer were arrested. The place was a recocking plant for denatured alcohol. The raiders found underground vats that were connected with the tank cars by a hose. The finished alcohol was found to come from tanks in the garage in the rear of the building which housed the still, estimated to be capable of producing 2,500 gallons of finished alcohol daily.

Cassius Taddeo and Frank Ciescuk, both of whom gave their addresses as 1025 Winchester avenue, Chicago, were arrested when dry agents raided a large still on a farm in Hillside.

BRONCHO BUSTER IS PARALYZED BY RODEO ACCIDENT

Nowata Slim Richardson, world's champion bronc rider in 1924, and a close contender for the honor in the rodeo here again this year, lies partially paralyzed in Wesley hospital.

When Nowata Slim, who is registered at the hospital as A. B. Richardson of Lenape, Okla., was thrown and kicked in the head during the last Saturday evening performance of the rodeo, he thought he had suffered merely a bruise.

"I thought I was all right," Slim said, "but the next day I felt kind of stiff, and then I began to get numb."

Physicians say his paralysis is probably caused by a blood clot on the brain. Yesterday he could move his right arm a little, a feat which he demonstrated with a broad smile. Mrs. Richardson, who rode in the rodeo as Mabel Ranch is with him here.

What would happen to your little boy

—if he ate
no butter?

Has it ever occurred to you that the butter you serve three or more times a day to your child is one of the most vitally important factors in his growth and development? We all know we must serve butter to children, but how many stop to realize the tremendous value of this food in the daily diet? McCollum and Stearns, in their authoritative textbook, Food, Nutrition and Health, say:

"Few people realize the gravity of the situation as respects rickets among children. . . . Butter and egg yolks are the only common foods which have been shown to contain the anti-rachitic (rickets-preventive) principle in appreciable amounts."

Almost every mother knows that butter is a source of fat in its most easily digestible form.

But many mothers are only learning that butter contributes to health and strength vastly beyond the mere food calories which it contains.

For butter is rich in that important energy-giving substance, called vitamin A—now considered essential to growth and maintaining a healthy body.

Vitamin D is a specific for rickets and rickets and is also present in butter, just as it is abundantly present in cod liver oil. So butter is more than food. It is really concentrated sunshine. To omit these important vitamins from a child's daily ration may cause serious impairment of health.

A butter for growing children

The question, "what kind of butter?" is an important one, for there is a vast difference in butter—a vast difference in the cream from which it is churned, the way the butter is made, the sanitary precautions taken—a vast difference in quality and flavor and food value.

Blue Valley Butter, with its golden color and delightful, natural flavor, is always pure, wholesome and safe—especially rich in health-giving vitamins.

It provides children, in an appealing form, these vital elements, so necessary for growth and robust health.

Blue Valley Butter is made only from selected cream, sent direct from dairy to creamery and thoroughly pasteurized. It is prepared with a scrupulous cleanliness and scientific care that go far beyond ordinary practice. It is simply stored with all the life-giving values that Nature placed in the cream.

To further make certain that each pound contains the essentials so vital to the growth and health of children, Blue Valley secured the services of Professor Otto F. Hummel, the most eminent scientist in this field. Every pound of Blue Valley Butter is made under his supervision.

And for your final protection, Blue Valley Butter is never sold in bulk, but only in sanitary, triple-sealed packages—one-pound or half-pound. Also in quarter-pound "sticks" for cutting paties.

Despite the rigid care used in the selection of cream, the costly scientific methods, the many extra precautions and safeguards, the added cost of Blue Valley Butter is but a trifle. If not at your dealer's, telephone us. We will gladly arrange to supply you. Blue Valley Creamery Co., 1137 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago. Telephone Monroe 7420.

ILLINOIS COAL PEACE PARLEYS AT CRISIS TODAY

Settlement or Deadlock
Is Expected.

Definite announcement either of a settlement or deadlock in the discussion of a peace plan for the Illinois coal industry is expected today, shortly after the peace committee, of operators and miners meets at 10 this morning.

Heavy shrouded the negotiations yesterday. The peace committee which had hired a hall for the public conference at the Auditorium, hid itself in a Michigan avenue office building in which are located general offices of many coal companies.

John L. Lewis, international president of the miners' union, came to Chicago yesterday. He conferred with operators and also representatives of the union miners of Iowa.

The attitude of the operators is reported to have stiffened materially in the last few hours, the optimism with which the conference opened appears to have dwindled to some extent at least.

Large consuming corporations have urged pressure against a settlement. Representatives declare, although they will not talk further along that line for publication. On the other hand, Illinois operators say they have been working under more onerous conditions than imposed by the union in other states. The Illinois operators

MELLON STUDIES LIST OF '28 POSSIBILITIES; WON'T COMMIT SELF

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—(Special.)—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon intends to take his time before committing himself to any presidential candidate, he asserted today.

Parrying further attempts to obtain an expression of opinion from him, Mr. Mellon said that he will hold himself aloof from all movements for one candidate or another until he absorbs all the information he can. The general impression prevails that Mr. Mellon will support Charles E. Hughes if the latter will consent to become a candidate and that otherwise he will back Secretary of Commerce Hoover. Mr. Mellon is expected to head the Pennsylvania delegation to the Republican convention.

CORONER ORDERS BODY EXHUMED; SUSPECT MURDER

Deputy Coroner Sidney Deaton yesterday ordered the body of Constantine Kason, 41 years old, 300 East 54th street, a café owner, exhumed for post-mortem examination.

Kason was found with a bullet in his right temple in Jackson park several days ago. Friends of the dead man said they believed he had been murdered. The inquest was continued until Oct. 4.

The body of Kason was found by two south park policemen at 54th street and the lake. Beneath his body was a revolver. According to his widow he had left his restaurant at 111 East 54th street and had taken $100 from the cash register. When the body was found only $1.50 was in his pockets. A diamond ring valued at $100 also was gone.

Attorney Benjamin Short Jr., representing the family of Kason, told Coroner Deaton that there were no known reasons why he should have taken his own life. He also declared that he believed there were three bullets fired into his brain. He carried insurance amounting to $25,000.

EASTERN ROADS SKEPTICAL AS TO SHIP ALLIANCE

Must Study Hurley Plan Before Indorsing.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sep. 8.—(Special.)—Railroad executives here are interested in Edward N. Hurley's suggestion, made last Sunday in Chicago, that the railroads acquire and operate ocean steamships, but they have not yet given the idea constructive study.

They declare that Mr. Hurley's thorough knowledge of shipping, obtained during the war while he was chairman of the United States shipping board, gives weight to his suggestion. Most of them consider the idea feasible and on an apparently sound basis, but they are inclined to shake their heads when asked to discuss some definite idea or plan.

"The shoemaker should stick to his last," said D. L. Gray, vice president in charge of traffic for the Erie railroad, "at least until he knows more about new fields."

Further Study Necessary.

Railroad men are ignorant concerning ocean shipping. The same laws that apply to the common carriers on land do not apply to ocean traffic and it already is difficult enough to get proper rail legislation. The matter calls for study, and at the present I am not informed on ocean shipping. We must have assurance that our vessels will not be at a disadvantage in competition with those of other nations, as they are said to be at the present."

J. M. Davis, president of the Lackawanna railway, said Mr. Hurley's statement had engaged his attention and that he expected soon to discuss it with other railroad men.

Proposed Appointee Sound.

Hugh Neill, executive secretary of the Southern Pacific in New York, was reluctant to discuss Mr. Hurley's suggestion, preferring that comment come from San Francisco headquarters. However, Mr. Neill said Mr. Hurley's proposal not only was worthy of study by all railroad men but that it appeared sound.

"The Southern Pacific already is in the coastwise shipping business and operates more than a score of boats profitably," he said.

"At present they are under direct control of the interstate commerce commission, just as are the railroads, and operate similarly to what might be termed a huge extension of the ferry lines of other railroads.

"Whether or not equally favorable conditions would obtain in trans-Atlantic and trans-Pacific operation is the question that will have to be decided."

Illinois Central's Status.

The only other United States railroad that operates on the ocean is the Illinois Central. It has eight or more boats plying between Savannah, Ga., and New York and Boston. They are operated through a subsidiary of the Illinois Central, the Central of Georgia.

E. M. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley, said he would require more time to study Mr. Hurley's interview, as he was not familiar with ocean shipping.

At the Missouri Pacific office here it was said that William H. Williams, chairman of the board, was giving the Hurley suggestion consideration, but that he was out of the city at present.

C. E. A. McCarthy, at the Southern Railway office, was not ready to discuss the matter.

At the local Pennsylvania office it was said that W. W. Atterbury, the president, had expressed interest in Mr. Hurley's idea, but that he had no comment to make at the present.

In the absence of P. E. Crowley, president, and his executive assistant, M. J. Alger, no comment was forthcoming from the New York Central railway headquarters.

One executive of an eastern railroad, who declined to be identified, expressed doubt that the suggestion could ever be put into operation.

"Legislation that would apply to land and water carriers alike would be too difficult to work out," he said. "There would be the problem of the strong railroad and the weak railroad with the strong railroad being made more powerful and the weak railroad being forced out of business. Consolidation would have to come before ocean business could be given serious consideration."

Of the ten other railroad executives who admitted interest in the Hurley suggestion, but declined to talk for publication without more information, several appeared already to have been digging into the subject. A consensus shows:

They feel that if the idea develops into a reality the railroads could buy their tonnage from the government at bargain prices, but that that would be only a minor part of the problem.

The roads would face the burden of engaging in a new business which old hands at the game had found too difficult. There would be no assurance that they could operate profitably until huge sums had been invested in trial lines.

They would face what the present operators call adverse shipping regulations, such as the seamen's law and rate regulations.

However, they see the possibility of an American merchant marine of the highest type if these difficulties can be overcome.

SAYS ELECTRIFIED FENCE HELD HER AS HE LAUGHED

Mrs. Hester Clemans told Judge W. S. Peck in Aurora police court yesterday that her neighbor, Orville Gray, electrified the iron fence between their houses so that when she took hold of it she could not let go. To add to her distress, Mrs. Clemans said Gray laughed at her.

Then, he disappeared and shortly afterward the current was turned off; she was freed.

Mrs. Clemans was prosecuting Gray on an assault and battery warrant, but her case failed when she was unable to specify the date on which the shocking incident occurred.

CLEAN-BE-TWEEN

It's bad enough to lose your teeth, but—

if you lose your health?

Disease lurks in unclean teeth spreading infection throughout the body. Even in seeming health the seeds of dangerous illness are planted. Keep the teeth clean! With the ordinary toothbrush 35% of the tooth surfaces are never reached. Your dentist, a week after he has polished your teeth, will show you unclean surfaces between the teeth and at the roots.

Dentists have designed the Clean-Be-Tween to overcome this condition. It does everything that a "toothbrush" does and in addition sweeps the crevices between the teeth as no "toothbrush" can. It massages the gum pockets, pressing them clean and free from infection. When your Clean-Be-Tween brush begins to wear, do not throw away the handle. Merely buy a "refill" for only 25c and replace the used brush on the permanent handle. Thus your toothbrush actually will cost less.

Try the Clean-Be-Tween for thirty days and you will say your mouth never felt so clean and your teeth never looked so white and attractive.

CHICAGO BANKERS TO TAKE RESERVE FIGHT TO CAPITAL

Deny Board Legal Right to Change Discount.

Chicago bankers yesterday made plans to continue their fight against the rulings of the federal reserve board at Washington affecting the affairs of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago, a fight precipitated by an order from the Washington board to the Chicago bank to reduce the rediscount rate from 4 to 3 1/2 per cent.

The Chicago bankers, it was learned, are prepared to carry their case before the United States Supreme court and if they fail there, steps to have the objectionable feature of the federal reserve act repealed by congress will be taken when that body convenes this fall.

Plan Action Next Week.

The first step against the Washington board will take place a week from today when the advisory committee of the board, consisting of representatives of each of the twelve federal reserve districts, will meet in Washington. Frank O. Wetmore, chairman of the First National bank of Chicago, and the representative on the committee of zone 7, the Chicago district, is prepared to ask the committee to administer a rebuke to the board.

It was learned yesterday that there was discussion among the members of the national reserve board at their meeting in which it was decided to order the Chicago Federal Reserve bank to reduce its rediscount rate. It is said that Edmund Platt, vice governor of the board, has a decided doubt as to the validity of the opinion of the attorney general, which was rendered in 1919, giving the national board the right to issue such an order.

Lawyers in Chicago, Washington, and New York say there is a serious question as to the authority of the board to establish a new rate for any of the reserve banks. If the question reaches congress it will add a new issue to discussions which have been carried on intermittently relative to proposed enlargement or curtailment of the power of the board.

Glass Denies Board's Power.

Senator Glass of Virginia, who was chairman of the house committee on banking and currency during the Wilson administration and as such one of the authors of the federal reserve act, has always maintained that the board did not have the power to fix rates.

H. Parker Willis, economist and author of the framers of the reserve act, said that the board has no positive authority to order a reserve bank to cut its rate, though it may force a new rate if there is a continued lock on the rate between the board and a bank.

In their anger over the action of the board, Chicago bankers yesterday inferred that unless arbitrary action on the part of the board was stopped and to the federal reserve system was in sight. None cares to see this happen, but they resent, they say, the attempted subordination of bankers who live in Chicago to a board far away, the members of which they believe do not understand conditions in the various reserve districts. Withdrawal from the board of directors of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago by such men and under such circumstances is highly probable, some Chicago bankers said yesterday.

PUNISH BANDIT SUSPECT; SAWS FOUND IN CELL

John Pich, held for a score of payroll robberies, was in the military confinement cell formerly occupied by Henry J. (Midget) Fennekes, yesterday by Warden Edward J. Fogarty of the county jail when he discovered three steel saws hidden in Pich's cell. Treatment similar to that given Fennekes, who many times tried to escape, will be meted out to Pich, according to the warden.

The specially constructed cell, which is isolated in what is known as the "jail gold coast," is protected by special doors and fine mesh screens. No visitors are allowed to see the occupant.

Pineville, W. Va., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Wylie and Estill Sizemore, cousins, were convicted today of first degree murder with a recommendation of mercy for the slaying of Gus Simmons, state prohibition agent, in the Wyoming county mountains last July 11. They were immediately sentenced to life imprisonment. Lee and John Sizemore, brothers of Wylie, were acquitted. The two cousins convicted admitted the shooting, but declared they fired in self defense.

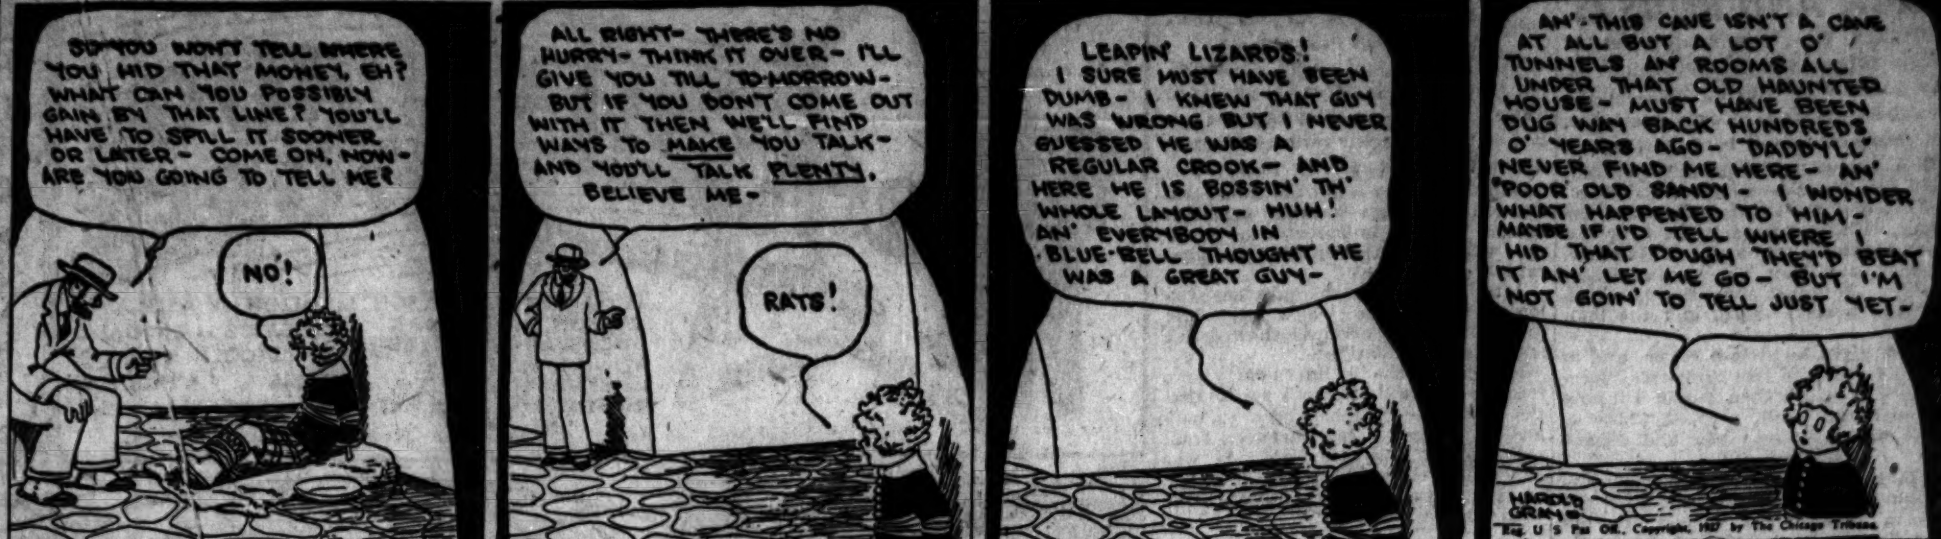

Striking Truckmen Rush Police Guards on Caravan

Paul Ash and Gang to Top W-G-N Program

PAUL ASH and his merry band, musical gang from the Oriental theater come back to W-G-N, the Chicago Tribune station on the Drake hotel, for another of their rollicking programs tonight between 8:30 and 9 o'clock.

Last week, because of the theater strike, Paul and his musical cohorts were missing from W-G-N and tonight Paul says that the gang is ready to welcome a pent-up volume of jazz that is going to dazzle listeners.

Dave Rubinoff, Myrtle Gordon, and the Leslies, brothers are the headlineers with Paul this week.

W-G-N's program tonight plays host to another celebrity, when Olive May, prima donna of the "Young America" company, now playing at the Chicago theater, appears during tonight's Pepper party, starting at 10:30 o'clock.

Miss May has been starred in many Broadway productions, and she was also the original "Radio Sunshine Girl" at the last Madison Square Garden Radio show in New York, where she received first prize for the best radio singing voice. She will be heard in several numbers during the Pepper party.

Paul Ash is not the only missing member of the W-G-N schedule returning to the air over W-G-N after a long absence. The popular Anglo-Persian orchestra comes back with a special program containing some of his best liked numbers, and listeners may hear his familiar stinging instrument in some of their favorite selections.

Health Department Records Show "Selected" Milk Excels

The Chicago Health Department is ever vigilant in its inspection of the city milk supply.

At frequent intervals, its representatives take samples of milk from the store, wagons and branch depots.

These samples are then analyzed by the skilled chemists in the Bureau of Dairy Products of the Department.

The results of these tests are then mailed to the companies whose samples were tested.

The report shown above is reproduced from one of these inspection sheets.

The report given proves the greater care in the production of "Selected" milk, and explains its sweet, natural taste.

There is no other milk in Chicago so good.

ASK COMPROMISE TO SPEED WORK ON I. C. VIADUCT

In an effort to clear up the difficulties between the city and the Illinois Central railroad over completion of the Randolph street viaduct east of Michigan avenue, Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe yesterday enlisted the aid of George F. Getz, chairman of the mayor's advisory committee. Mr. Getz told the commissioner that he will call a conference of all the parties involved and try to effect a compromise. An ordinance providing for the viaduct has been held up in the city council for two years, due to a dispute over a job in the structure to the south where it would serve the new I. C. suburban station.

GILLIOM BEGS INDIANA TO END FANATICS' RULE

State Can Be Redeemed Only at Polls.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 8.—[Special.]—Declaring that the people of Indiana "are no longer in a mood to pussyfoot with the pussyfooters when decent representative government is in issue," Arthur L. Gilliom, attorney general of Indiana, in an address before the Kiwanis club of this city today, expressed contempt for parties and candidates who submit to the will of such organizations as the Ku Klux Klan and the Anti-Saloon league.

The attorney general asserted that the days of the control of state affairs by such groups rapidly are drawing to an end, with the prospect of a vast improvement in the political health of the state.

"The power of such individuals as Klan Head Evans of Georgia in Indiana politics and government is crumbling," he said. "A general sentiment is developing among the people of Indiana for the redemption of honest and true representative government from the harmful activities of the selfish leaders of intolerance and fanaticism."

"That political party and that candidate for office that fails to be free from the taint of the un-American and unwholesome influences that are embarrassing our state will and ought to fail in future elections."

NEW COUNTY JAIL CORNER STONE TO BE LAID IN WEEK

The corner stone of the $7,500,000 Criminal Courts and Jail building will be laid next Thursday morning, it was announced yesterday. President Anton J. Cermak of the county board will preside at the ceremony. Speakers will include City Controller Charles C. Fitzmorris, Chief Justice William V. Brothers of the Criminal court, and Acting State's Attorney George H. German.

FAHERTY'S IRISH UP; HE'LL SAIL ON BRITISH LINER

Undeterred by a stack of letters and numerous telephone calls from objectors, President Michael J. Faherty of the board of local improvements announced definitely last night that he will sail from Europe on a British liner Sept. 21.

Most of the letter writers agreed with Ald. L. G. Grossman (8th) that Mr. Faherty ought to use an American ship in conformity with Mayor Thompson's slogan, "America First." "My pride would make me go on a British vessel now whether I intended to or not," Mr. Faherty declared. "I don't propose to be bulldozed as the result of a practical joke."

"Incidentally, these glass house patriots that are howling so loud might be interested to know that I had five sons in the late war and two brothers in the Spanish-American war."

HEARINGS START ON RAIL CLERKS' WAGE DEMANDS

The United States arbitration board yesterday opened a hearing into a demand by the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and Freight Handlers for an increase of 15 cents an hour for 4,000 employees of the Chicago and Northwestern railway. The board will also consider a counter proposition by the railroad that the pay of certain classes of common labor be reduced.

The brotherhood demand, if granted, would increase the pay roll of the company by $3,500,000 per year. Victor E. Clark of Boston, a neutral member, is chairman of the board. Dean Ralph E. Heilman of the school of commerce of Northwestern university is the other neutral member.

HEAVY RAINS IN CANADA ASSIST WHEAT UPWARD

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Heavy rains in parts of Canada with short covering credited to a local professional gave the wheat market a firmer undertone with the finish at net gains of 1/4 to 1/2 c. September closed at $1.32 1/2, or 1/4 c. under December, the spread narrowing fractionally as the result of buying of the nearby delivery by a large cash house which was changing over hedges into the deferred future. Corn advanced 1/4 to 1/2 c. the market developing an over-sold condition. September was $1.02 1/2 at the last, or 1/4 c. under December, or about the same difference as on Wednesday. Oats and rye gained 1/4 c.

Argentine Needs Rain.

Taken as a whole the news during the day was rather favorable for higher prices, but trade was not large as the local element were not disposed to sell freely as the government report will be issued after the close today. Cable sold of a need of rain in both Argentina and Australia, while in Europe there was some rain on the continent and a department of commerce cable confirmed severe weather damage in the northwestern Europe due to the prolonged spell of rains recently.

Less Pressure on Corn.

There was a noticeable letup in the pressure on corn, and with a good deal of buying held by a house with eastern connections the surplus was taken out of the pit early, and short covering later advanced prices 2 1/2 c. from the low with the finish within a fraction of the top. Weather conditions over the belt were favorable, with highly beneficial rain in many sections, and the forecast was for more moisture. Purchases to arrive were 300,000 bu.

Trade in oats was fair with houses with northwestern connections taking the December, and there was also short covering. Selling on resting orders and hedging pressure checked the advance. Premiums on shipping returns continue to come from the northwest.

Houses with foreign and eastern connections were on the buying side of rye, with export sales of 100,000 bu. at the seaboard an advance was easily attained. Comments on the German situation were construed as bullish.
